

TEAMWORK FOR A COMMON GOAL

LABOR-MANAGEMENT PEACE PROPOSED

Labor leaders are being urged by a top management spokesman to support specific issues on which business and labor have a common interest.

E. D. Kenna, president of the National Association of Manufacturers says, that business and labor have a mutual interest "in our government's urging the tearing down of tariffs, quotas, rigged specifications and all other hindrances to American businesses in foreign markets." Mr. Kenna also pointed out to labor that:

"We have an equal stake in bringing economic reality to bear on environmentalist proposals on a case-by-case basis.

"We share an interest in raising the standards of working conditions throughout the world and raising labor productivity at home.

"We have an equal stake in training and retraining our people throughout their working lives so that they remain useful members of society, with the self-respect and self-reliance that such usefulness brings.

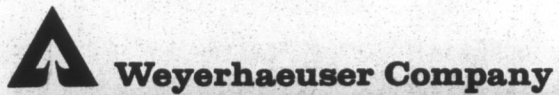

"And, we should share an interest in government economic policies that permit the earning of the necessary profits to make possible plant expansion and modernization and provide the additional jobs necessary to produce the goods and services that are the keys to prosperity."

Labor and management should cooperate for the good of the entire nation and join in a united front to make American industry more productive and competitive.

Program Aims To Aid Adults

RALEIGH — Adults who have less than a high school education will have a chance to obtain one through a program co-sponsored by the University of North Carolina television network and the technical institute community college system.

The television program, called "Your Future Is Now," will begin October 2 and run until May 9 on ETV. The series will help prepare adults to pass the General Educational Development tests. When a person successfully completes the tests, he receives a high school certificate issued by the State Board of Education.

Guide books which accompany the course may be obtained at technical institutes and community colleges.

The lessons will include social studies, science, literature, mathematics and English.

Each lesson will be broadcast twice on Tuesdays and Thursday at 2 P.M. and 7 P.M. On Sundays the lessons will be repeated at 3 and 3:30 P.M.

The following area television station will broadcast the series: WUND (Channel 2) Columbia.

Ingenuity Helps To Solve Wheat Transportation

Improvisation becomes essential when the right kind of railroad rolling stock is not available to do the job. This happened when United States wheat went international and the bulk of the Russian grain movement to shipping ports had to be handled along with the regular domestic harvest.

Highly sophisticated computer systems were utilized by some individual railroads. An unprecedented conversion of coal open hopper cars, cleaned and outfitted with covers to haul grain was initiated.

The Illinois Central Gulf Railroad experimented with a removable fiberglass top to convert open hopper cars into covered cars for grain handling. The test was made with turn-around trains between Iowa points and the Chicago ports. It was an unqualified success, according to railroad officials.

Allan S. Boyd, president of the railroad said that, "Its success gives an exciting glimpse of possibilities for economical equipping to handle the larger volumes of export grain that seems to be in our future."

"If you think time heals everything, try sitting it out in a doctor's office." — Robert Schmedier, Times Birdsboro (Penna.) Dispatch.

"Success is when you have your name in everything but the telephone book." — Larry King, The Termopolis (Wyo.) Independent Record.
