State Fair Opens Friday

RALEIGH — The 106th N. C. State Fair, one of the nation's largest agricultural, industrial and educational expositions, will open here this Friday and run through October 20.

Highlighting this year's fair, which annually draws over half a million visitors from all parts of North Carolina and numerous other states, will be a program of free entertainment in Dorton Arena.

For the first time ever, major attractions, such as Ricky Nelson, Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass and the Earl Scruggs Review, will be available for fairgoers to enjoy free of charge.

Elsewhere on the grounds, some 3,000 Tar Heels will display over 11,000 exhibits ranging from pumpkins to cattle to hand-crafted wares.

Two dome-shaped temporary structures adjacent to the Arena are expected to draw thousands to shows telling the story of North Carolina's poultry and corn industries.

And as always, children of all ages will thrill to the excitement of rides and shows provided by the James E. Strates Shows on the midway, and activities in the grandstand.

Opening Day ceremonies will be dedicated to a joint project of fair management and the Sudan Temple Shriners which will allow crippled children and their families to gain free admission to the fair. An appearance by Gov. James Holshouser is scheduled along with music and monkeyshines by Shrine uniformed units.
