

Some Rural Road Signs To Vanish

One of the latest demonstrations of environmental concern by a major agricultural firm is the Agrow Seed Company's decision to minimize the placement of their signs along public roads and highways.

The company will place signs only to mark test plot locations, and to identify dealers in the future, according to Bill Schapaugh, general manager of the firm's agronomic division.

Previously, salesmen and dealers often placed signs where crops were planted with the company's seed along well-traveled thoroughfares, Schapaugh says. This amounted to thousands of signs around the country.

"Although some states are taking action to prohibit or limit placement of signs along public roads, such signs remain legal in many areas," Schapaugh explains. "However, we feel that the trend to scenic beautification is clear and we plan to help lead in supporting this cause on a voluntary basis."

In the past, Agrow has used three types of signs, including dealer identification signs, small signs for crop variety identification, and larger (40" x 48") road signs containing the familiar company trademark. In the future, these road signs and crop identification signs will be limited to educational crop demonstration locations. Only the dealer identification signs will be used as before.

BEFORE

I think that I shall never see

A billboard lovely as a tree.

Perhaps, unless the billboards fall,

I'll never see a tree at all.

—Ogden Nash

AFTER

These two drawings illustrate what has happened to the scenery along much of America's roadways and what the landscape could look like again if the road signs were removed.

A NEW WAY TO SALT!

The Morton Salt Company is introducing new Morton Lite Salt, the first reduced sodium salt with half the sodium and all the flavor of regular salt.

New Lite Salt is formulated for every family that wants to cut their salt consumption, a measure which many leading doctors recommend because of the established connection between sodium and hypertension (high blood pressure). For more information on reduced sodium menu planning for your family, send $5.00 for postage and handling to Morton Lite Salt, Box 3431, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

PATENTED SEED?

At last, Under the U.S. Plant Varieties Protection Act, developers of "seeded plants" can receive certificates of registration, in effect patenting their new varieties.

Of the first group of Certificates awarded in April, 1973 - Ferry Morse Seed Company received one half the total number of "patents," a genuine tribute to this 118-year-old plant research and breeding firm's capabilities.
