No Newcastle Disease Here

RALEIGH—The N. C. Department of Agriculture reports that no cases of exotic Newcastle disease have been diagnosed in this state. According to Dr. T. F. Zweigart, director of the Division of Animal Health, this highly contagious, fatal disease of poultry has been confirmed in specimens from coots (wild waterfowl) destroyed three weeks ago in the Norfolk, Va. area. The coots, about 20,000 of them, were killed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture because they were infected with fowl cholera. Subsequent examinations revealed that they were also infected with exotic Newcastle disease. "Poultrymen should be on the alert for the symptoms of exotic Newcastle disease which includes wheezing, gasping, twisted neck, drooping wings, diarrhea, and nervousness," Dr. Zweigart said. "Any sick birds may be reported to the Animal Health Laboratory in Edenton or to the Division of Animal Health, N. C. Department of Agriculture. Precautions should also be taken to prevent wild birds from coming in contact with chickens." Dr. Zweigart emphasized that the disease poses no threat to consumers of poultry or poultry products.

Financial Aid Easier To Obtain

Gary Parsons is a man with good news for college students. Parsons, director of financial aid at College of The Albemarle, says that the door to education is wide open for the interested student. He bases his statement of the fact that, more than ever, financial assistance is available to students. He says it is true that it is almost impossible to escape the inflationary crunch, but at the same time, it should have no disastrous effect on a young person's educational plans. He cited one area of relief in tuition costs. Effective July 1, the tuition rates for college transfer students who are attending COA will be reduced by $27 annually. According to the financial aid officer, the big windfall to the college students will come through reduced qualification requirements in federally supported financial assistance programs. "Our federal government has recognized the hardships that inflation has placed upon you and me," he said. He continued by saying, "In an effort to lighten your financial burden, the government is making it easier for a student to qualify for and receive financial assistance while attending college." In effect, he explained, many students found ineligible in the past, stand a better-than-even chance of receiving assistance during the 1975-76 school year. One of the programs which has been most effective in meeting the needs of students, in Parsons' opinion, is the Basic Opportunity Grant program. Through this program, a student can receive a grant to pay for educational and living expenses during the 1975-76 school year. It is expected that students can qualify for up to $1,000 per year. He said, "Considering the low-cost-tuition at College of The Albemarle, this grant would more than cover a student's educational costs, leaving extra money for lunches, transportation, or to help his or her family." Those who are interested in learning more about this and other assistance programs available at the college can do so by calling 335-0821, extension 212.

Week Pushes Better Morals

Gov. James E. Holshouser, Jr., has signed a proclamation setting April 7-13 as Community Standards Week in North Carolina and Chairman C. A. Phillips of Chowan County Board of Commissioners has designated the week locally. The action followed a recommendation by the Task Force on Obscenity and Pornography set up by the Christian Action League of North Carolina. It was noted that the action is indicative of the scope of awareness among public officials that efforts for improvement as relates to our moral climate is called for. The proclamation states that the quality and strength of any society can be measured somewhat by the standards that exist in literature and entertainment. Also, by lowering the standards questions are raised about the highest standards of tone, mode, style and quality of live in the state and county. It calls for the citizens to "contribute toward a renewed standard of excellence for our state and our nation as he is motivated according to his own talents and in his own area of influence."

JOB CORPS GRADUATES—Eric Owens, left, and Ed Ferebee, both of Route 1, Edenton, recently took part in the 190th graduation exercise of the Singer Breckinridge Job Corps Center in Morganfield, Ky. They successfully completed studies in automotive and plan careers in the field of auto body painting and refinishing.
