

HERRING SEASON-This is the herring season in Albemarle Sound and Chowan River, and creeks thereabouts. Weather conditions have hampered the "run" but this week more fish were being caught. This photo by Allan Asbell was compiled Sunday in rural Chowan County as people spent a leisurely afternoon along a creek bank or over a bridge railing. Walter Lane is shown at

Salute To Secretaries

This is National Secretary Week, designed for bosses to pay special attention to their "right arms". (Wives are to take this in the most favorable light to the husband.)

Since we have never had the good fortune of having a secretary, most anything we say would be comparable to a childless couple trying to tell us how to raise a family. Nevertheless, we have seen good secretaries at work and know from observation, if not experience, that they play an important role in the scheme of things along the Public Parade and throughout the country.

A secretary must be more than a good typist or fast at dictation. She must be one step ahead of anyone else in the front office if she is to earn her keep. In many cases she unfolds the image of the office just by the way she answers the phone.

A secreatary must also be crafty. She has to know when to break certain news to her boss, she has to know when to interrupt a conference, she has to be all things to all people.

The secretarial profession is an important one and if we ever manage to get into a position of affording a secreatry she had better be all the things we think one should be.

Broad "Thank You"

The Bicentennial Pilgrimage of Colonial Edenton and Countryside is now history. It was the most successful biennial event ever staged by Edenton Woman's Club in terms of gross receipts. And in the minds of many, it was the most successful, period!

We have been asked by the sponsors to say "thank you" on their behalf to everyone who made this a true "Community effort". This is one of the easiest things we have ever been asked to do.

The spirit of cooperation displayed during this event is not an accident. It is by design. It is a design that becomes natural event when something comes along that really benefits the community.

Edenton Woman's Club enjoys the respect and cooperation of the community because they are women of action, not of talk. Over the years they have plowed more than $100,000 back into the community in profits from the home and garden tours.

While they are primarily interested in paying homage to those who made the pilgrimage a community effort, they are the vehicle by which it happened. In this respect it is truly demonstrated which came first, the chicken or the egg.

Action Taken To Dissolve Agency Suit

Steps were initiated last week to dissolve a suit between two regional organizations--Albemarle Human Resources Development System and Albemarle Regional Planning & Development System.

The system brought the suit in February after the commission sought to take over programs being operated by the system. Since that time the two boards have worked out a settlement and a 36-member Human Resources Advisory Committee has been appointed by the commission.

The commission recently adopted changes in the bylaws to provide for other agreements made with the system.

Mrs. Mary Riddick, system board chairman, reported April 16, that the commission had either fulfilled its obligation to the system or had taken positive steps toward doing so. L. F. Amburn, Jr., said in view of the fact such action had been taken the suit should be dissolved. His motion carried without opposition.

The new 36-member advisory committee will revise the existing system bylaws so that they are not inconsistent with the commission bylaws. "We will certainly remain active." Mrs. Riddick said.

Harold McKinney, acting executive director, reported on the status of the transportation and EMS grants, child development center, family planning, RMP projects and child abuse.

He noted that the transit system proposal is in the amount of $800,000 and the EMC amounts of $390,000.

Donald Young, health planner, presented the Comprehensive Health Planning report which was accepted by the board.

Jordan Bike-A-Thon Winner

For the second consecutive year Bill Jordan has won first place for money raised in the Easter Seals Bike-a-thon in Chowan County. As last year, Jordan will receive a bicycle donated by Belk Tyler.

Jordan collected over $300 in his 24-mile ride through Edenton and the Chowan countryside.

Gail Hare Singh won second prize with Susan Spruill being named third prize winner.

Others in the top 10 finished in the following order:

Craig Halsey, Allen Perry, Al Ward, Worth Hare, Jr., Ann Meadows, Lynn Dale and Carroll W. Jones.

The benefit is sponsored by the Chowan County Easter Seals committee and the Edenton Recreation Department. Prizes are to be picked up at the National Guard Armory.

Schools Close Early

All public schools in the Edenton-School System will close one hour early on Tuesday. John A. Holmes High School will host a regional meeting of teachers and administrators from 19 school systems at this time. Educational consultants from Lakewood, Ohio, will be training the personnel involved in the "New Model Me" curriculum. "New Model Me" is a nationally validated, innovative educational practice, which was begun at John A. Holmes High this spring.

Teachers and administrators at D. F. Walker, E. A. Swain, White Oak, and Chowan High will be involved in 1975-76 school plans and staff development activities at the respective schools for the remainder of the afternoon.

Salaries Force Rate Increase At Hospital

Chowan Hospital has been forced into a mid-year room rate increase in order to raise funds to stay competitive with other hospitals for professional and other personnel salaries.

The difficult decision was reached Tuesday morning by the Executive Committee, according to Thomas M. Surratt, president.

The increased rate, to be effective May 25, is $3 per day for each bed. This is considerably lower than the $10 per day increase announced recently by Albemarle Hospital in Elizabeth

The Pasquotank County hospital's rates were increased to fund salary boosts and a retirement program as well as help with a $250,000-per-year emergency room program.

At Chowan, the new rates will be $46 for semi-private beds and $49 and $50 for private beds. "Both the Finance and Executive committees could see no other alternative in order to generate money to meet salary requirements," Surrat said. "To the man they were concerned about increasing rates but their backs were to the wall." Surratt said no rate increase had been anticipated when the hospital board approved the budget for this fiscal year. "We had believed we could continue to be competitive in the area without it," he said. Recent developments made the increase necessary, he concluded.

At the same meeting the Executive Committee decided to use Trustee Funds to match donations from Chowan Hospital Auxiliary to purchase a ventilater for Vaughan Respiratory Center. The auxiliary in March donated $2,000 towards the machine and other donations have been received.

Surratt said the committee's action provides for the machine to be ordered immediately
