

Edenton BPW Hosts District Ten Annual Meeting

The Edenton Business and Professional Womens Club hosted the annual meeting of the District Ten of The North Carolina Federation of Business and Professional Womens Club, Inc., on April 27, with Mrs. Clara Boswell, Edenton BPW President, presiding.

The meeting—which was the second largest held in North Carolina for the year 1974-75—had a total attendance of 160. The district consists of 10 chartered clubs and one club in the process of charter, a total membership of 415.

Miss Edna L. Snell, member of the host club, is currently serving as District Director.

Special guests attending the meeting were Mrs. Carolyn Williams, state president; Mrs. Betty Powell, state president-elect; Mrs. Laura Williams, state finance chairman; Immediate Past State President Janet Blair; Chairman for the 1975 State Convention, Mrs. Helen H. Mahlum, western area vice-president; Mrs. Shirley M. Williams, director, IV; and Mrs. Julia M. Hassell, former the local club, state legislative chairman.

The highlight of the meeting was the Young Careerist Program. This year there were eight participants, including:

Sandra H. Smith, health education specialist—representing Edenton. Margaret Robinson, social worker—representing Elizabeth City. Suzanne E. Stanton, teacher—representing Hertford. Margaret S. Murray, teacher—representing Nashville. Susie Jakeman, teacher—representing Plymouth.

Debra Odom, Parole Officer—representing Rocky Mount. Linda Holland, migrant and seasonal farm workers association—representing Rich Square.

Rogers Hall, journalist—representing Tarboro.

Selection Committee for the program were Nelia Amstutz, teacher at Chowan High School; Merrill Evans, Edenton attorney and Robert Gray, pastor of Edenton Baptist Church. Margaret S. Murray, representing the Nashville Club was the winner. Margeret is a teacher in the Rocky Mount City Schools and a graduate of Wake Forest University. In winning on the district level, she will now compete on the State level at the State Convention to be held in Raleigh in June. In describing her ambition she states she has a desire to instill within the learner the potential to become everything he or she can. Realizing this aim is idealistic, she counts herself a success only if one person, whom she teaches discovers he or she is somebody or in the words of Thomas Harris "okay".

The runner-up, Susie Jakeman, will compete at the state level should Margaret be unable to compete. Susie is a graduate of East Carolina University and currently teaching in Washington County Schools at Plymouth High School. She was winner over five participants in her local club.

The Young Careerist program is developed to honor Young Career Women, to encourage them, implement and motivate ideas within their careers to increase and elevate the standards of women in today's world of increased activities of women, both young and old. Mrs. Elizabeth Hare, local club chairman served as hostess to the participants and the Selection Committee.

During the ensuing business session the district officers for 1975-76 were elected as follows: Director - Mae Dawson of Tarboro Club.

Secretary-Treasurer - Clara Harrell of Tarboro Club. Director-Elect - Hazel Harrell of Rocky Mount Club.

State Nominating Committee Representative - Edna L. Snell of Edenton Club.

District Nominating Committee - Ruth Mansfield, chairman, Edenton Club, Betty Rader, Roanoke Rapids Club and Betty Smith, Rocky Mount Club.

The award of the Ruby Clyde Bowl which is given in recognition of the largest increase in membership during the year was received by the Nashville Club.

Special Music Slated For Baptist Service

"Miss, Mrs., or Ms.? (A Good Woman Who Can Find?)" is the sermon subject Rev. Robert E. Gray, pastor of Edenton Baptist Church, has selected for the 11 o'clock service on Sunday morning with Proverbs 31: 10-31 as his scripture text.

Special music during the morning worship will be provided by a quartet composed of Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. James Canterbury, Alton G. Elmore, and J. R. Baxley singing "Follow Me." Also performing during the service will be the Celestial Choir (4 & 5-year-olds) under the direction of Mrs. Larry Smith.

At the 7:30 evening worship, Mr. Gray will speak on "Preaching Through Adversity" using Philippians 1: 12-14 as the scripture and the Sanctuary Choir will render the anthem entitled "Lord, I Want To Be A Christian."

NARFE MEETING

There will be a meeting of the National Association of Federal Retired Employees at 2:30 P.M. Friday in the REA Building in Hertford. All federal retirees are urged to attend.
