

Report From Walter B. Jones

The House engaged in long sessions each day last week, convening at 10:00 A.M. rather than the usual hour of 12 noon. Among legislation considered and approved was a bill to restore the citizenship of General Robert E. Lee.

Strangely enough, there were only eight votes against this proposal. In a much more controversial bill, the House by a vote of 223 to 206, refused to lift the embargo on trade with Turkey. This was a bill in which President Ford and Secretary of State Kissinger, were most interested and exerted all pressure possible for its passage. This embargo was imposed on February 5 of this year as a result of legislation passed in December 1974. Those of us who voted for the lifting of the embargo did so because of the strategic military bases that this nation has in Turkey, and also with the hopes that the resumption of trade would help in the negotiations to settle the dispute over Cyprus. The Senate had previously approved this action by a vote of 43 to 42. Unlike other foreign trade legislation, this bill contained no grant funds whatsoever.

Also during the week, the President sent a Resolution to the Congress which he is required to do by law, asking permission to decontrol price regulations on gas and fuel oil, which we promptly rejected. So, for the time being, the controls remain in effect.

Contract Legalities Clarified

Contracts Between Husband and Wife
May a wife enter into a valid contract with her husband?

In North Carolina the answer depends upon the facts and circumstances of the particular case. Some contracts are valid only when certain statutory formalities are complied with, others are valid without complying with these statutory formalities, and there are still others that are contrary to public policy and are not valid under any conditions.

No important contract should be entered into between a husband and a wife without prior consultation with an attorney. If such is not done, there may result bitterness and disappointment later. Such may not occur until after the death of one or both of the parties.

May a wife convey the real property she owns to her husband?

This may be done only when the requirements and formalities of Section 52-6 of the General Statutes are complied with.

This statute requires a certifying officer of a court to privately examine the wife for the purpose of determining whether the conveyance is unreasonable or injurious to the wife.

The certifying officer must be a justice of the Supreme Court; judge, clerk; assistant clerk; or deputy clerk of the superior court; or magistrate justice of the peace.

This statute was passed to protect the wife from the Farm Bulletin Beneficial

RALEIGH—State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham has announced the release of the 1974-75 edition of N. C. Agricultural Statistics.

The 72-page magazine size publication lists data covering all state grown crops, livestock and poultry. Information is broken down by district and county. Data is compared to previous years by such characteristics as acres harvested, yield per acre, production, total dollar value and inventory numbers.

Also included is the weather-crop summary, individual and total value of the eleven principal crops plus other statistics pertinent to North Carolina agriculture.

Graham complimented W. E. Kibler and his staff of the State-Federal Crop

Reporting Service for the timely manner in which this bulletin was compiled and published in 1975. "This is one of the most beneficial services provided agriculture and the agribusiness of North Carolina. It is an invaluable tool for anyone engaged in any aspect of the agriculture industry."

Those wishing copies of North Carolina Agricultural Statistics for 1974-75 may obtain single copies free by writing: The Crop Reporting Service, N. C. Department of Agriculture, P. O. Box 27767, Raleigh, N. C. 27611.

"Yes and no. They haven't given much honey, but, on the other hand, they stung my mother-in-law."

WINN-DIXIE PLEDGES SPIRIT OF '76—Winn-Dixie Executive Vice President Joe A. Adams, left, presents Raleigh Division Manager J. C. Koon with an American flag symbolic of the food chain's pledge to fully support and take part in our nation's bicentennial celebration. The presentation was made at the annual division meeting held in Raleigh recently. Adams and Koon promised Winn-Dixie's re-dedication to the principles that have made our country strong: honesty, integrity, productivity and the "old fashioned" idea of a dollar's worth of value given for a dollar received.

Military Records Subject To Change By Veterans

The Veterans Administration reminded veterans of their right to request correction of what they feel are errors or injustices in their military records.

VA Regional Office Director H. W. Johnson advised that application must be submitted to the branch in which the veteran served, but VA can provide the necessary Department of Defense form, DD-149, "Application for Correction of Military or Naval Record."

Johnson pointed out that while some errors may seem insignificant, correction could prove important, possibly resulting in eligibility for VA and other benefits.

Generally, veterans are expected to file requests for correction within three years, but this deadline may be waived in interest of justice.

Applications may be filed by the veteran, survivors, or legal representatives.
