Arts Council Enrichment Program Ends Successful Semester

The Arts Council Enrichment Program, under the auspices of the Chowan Arts Council, has successfully concluded its spring semester. The program was designed by a group of concerned parents interested in enriching their children's lives by providing a stimulating and educational program outside and supplementary to the normal school system. The program was intended to cover a variety of subject areas.

The number of children was limited in order to provide individual attention. The group included children in the first through the third grade and was held every other Saturday from 10 A.M. to 12 noon in the library.

A full-time teacher, Mrs. Elizabeth Goodwin, was hired to provide continually and follow-up. In addition to Mrs. Goodwin, the children had the opportunity to hear and watch a series of visiting instructors each with expertise in different areas of study.

The first two classes were taught by Mrs. Peggy Anne Vaughan. They were devoted to the study of the development of printing and the group enjoyed a tour of The Chowan Herald newspaper office. Mrs. Clara Boswell spoke to the children on anatomy and the group learned to use the microscope and studied a human skeleton. Another program in the science area was presented by Mrs. Sally Blount.

The boys and girls have taken a variety of interesting trips. James Martin spoke on electricity and water and the group enjoyed an informative film. Follow the class discussion they toured the pumping station.

A trip the boys particularly enjoyed was a tour of the fire tower operated by the N. C. Forest Service. Roger Spivey presented a fascinating program on fire control and the reseeded of forest.

During the herring season, the children visited Nixon Fishery and watched the entire fish packing process. The group also spent an interesting hour at the Fish Hatchery.

There were two programs aimed at providing an interest in and appreciation of art. The first was a visit to Somerset Farm where Mrs. Frances Inglis gave a pottery making demonstration. Each child had an opportunity to actually use the potter's wheel. The last program in the series was presented by Mrs. Vivian Taft in which the children did an actual painting.

The program is closed now for the summer. Anyone wishing further information regarding fall registration contact Mrs. April Lane, chairman of the Arts Council Enrichment Program, at 482-4969.

Immunization Program Set

Plans are now being made to assure that school children in Edenton-Chowan Schools are immunized against the anticipated nationwide epidemic of "swine flu."

The immunization process will begin with the onset of the school year. The vaccine will be administered by the Division of Communicable Disease Control Board (CDCB) of the Department of Human Resources, in cooperation with local health programs. Reasons for the school based program are two-fold, according to State Superintendent A. Craig Phillips: to deliver the flu vaccine to 1.2-million students in an effort to prevent unnecessary and extreme absences, and to prevent students from spreading the virus throughout the community.

Dr. J. N. McCormack, director of CDCB, says he would like to see all North Carolina school children vaccinated by December 15, 1976.
