Student Councils To Arrive Here Saturday

The stage is set. The months of planning and preparation, over. Only the flurry of performing last minute details remain before the curtain goes up and the actors enterstage right, and left, from North, South, East, and West.

Early Saturday, approximately 300 delegates and advisors to the Eastern District of N.C. Association of Student Councils will begin arriving in Edenton for its sixth annual convention. During the two-day convention, participants representing 33 eastern counties will gather at John A. Holmes High and D.F. Walker schools for the business purposes of campaigning for, electing and installing 1977-78 officers. These student council members will also be attending discussion groups to determine ways to strengthen student councils on the local, state, and national levels, making constitutional ratifications, attending "swap shops", seminars, and committee meetings, and conducting business pertinent to the Eastern District of Student Councils.

Miss Frances Bounds, executive secretary of the NCASC will address the state theme, "TORCH- Today Our Reach Concerns Humanity" in her keynote speech to the delegation. Joe Hollowell, president of the N.C. Jaycees, will challenge the attitudes of student council members during his speech at a banquet planned for participants on Saturday night.

Woman's Club Reviews School Survey

Mrs. W.T. Culpepper, III president, presided.

Mrs. Donald Lassiter, the Education Chairman, introduced Dr. John Dunn, superintendent of the Edenton-Chowan Schools and John Schroeder, Director of Instructional Media. They jointly presented the program.

It was a very informative and interesting presentation on the 1976 school survey. As concerned parents and citizens of the community, those present felt they had a much better understanding of the decisions which have to be made shortly in regards to our school consolidation.

Mrs. Neil Dirom, Fine Arts chairman, gave a report on the recent District Art Show for Women's Clubs.

One of the Edenton Woman's Club members, Mrs. Lonnie Sick, won first place in her class, with an acrylic painting. She, also won a trophy for the best in all categories.

The club also sponsored several students from our local high schools in this same art show. One student, Lou Dexter, a student of Mrs. James Martin, won best in show. Her work, along with several others will be on exhibit at the State Art Show in Winston-Salem, March 26.

The club will continue to contribute to special needs at the Caswell Center in Kinston.
