

RECOGNIZED—Chowan Ruritan Club President, Carlton Nixon, is shown presenting outgoing president's pin to David Ober. Ober is currently serving as a zone governor.

Ruritan Sale Successful; Membership Drive Set

The Chowan Ruritan Club Community Sale grossed over $6,000, according to Douglas Tise, club treasurer. Carlton Nixon, club president, thanked the various committees which made the sale a success during the February meeting.

David Ober, zone governor, made his official visit to the club. Ober said he was impressed with the club's plan of work. Then he explained the purpose of Ruritan.

Wilbur Privott and Nixon volunteered to attend special commissioners' meeting concerning community roads.

Jack Strickland, Alfred Church and Carlton Dail agreed to head up work in repairing Mrs. Florine Nixon's shelter.

During business meeting, Ober suggested that the Chowan club work with Cape Colony and Ryland clubs in selecting a citizen-of-the-year.

President Nixon told the club members that March is membership month, and he urged each member to try to bring a potential new member to the meeting.

The club agreed to sponsor refreshments for a community improvement meeting on Wednesday night in Rocky Hock Rescue Squad building.

Extend Life Of Your Furniture

Want to make your furniture last twice as long? You can save money, too, in cleaning and upholstering costs by following a few steps in caring for your furniture.

"A few simple policies around the house can do wonders for your furniture," said Richard Brady, an Asheboro, insurance agent with eight years of upholstering experience. "And you needn't do them every day, like vacuuming."

Brady most recently upholstered for an Asheboro business before joining Integon Life Insurance Corp. He also owned and worked in two Florida upholstering shops for seven years. "In those eight years I learned that caring for your furniture beforehand makes it last a long time." Brady offers these tips: "Most of today's furniture comes with a tag that says the fabric has been coated with Scotch Guard, which is a spray used to protect the fabric from soils and stains. It's like a wax job on your car."

"However," Brady continued, "the strength of the spray wears out after six months. To compensate, you can buy a can at almost any hardware store for $2 or less. Then, spray it on the areas you use most—the cushion, the arms and the back, where your head rubs and grease can accumulate. You don't have to spray on the outside.

"Do this every six months," he added. "A can should then last for three full sprays—about a year and a half." Brady also advises cleaning stains immediately. "If a piece gets soiled from coffee, for instance, wipe it up right away. If you wait, it gets worse."

"Cleaning is very easy. Just mix some dishwashing detergent with warm water and make heaps of suds. Then, using the top layers of suds, clean the area thoroughly with a bristled brush. After it dries, apply a fresh coat of Scotch Guard." Spraying and cleaning up stains right away can increase the wear of your furniture by 100 per cent, Brady said.
