

Busy Discussing

I heard some small boys talking,
One day I was passing a country shop.
I paused for a moment to listen,
And then I really wanted to stop.

One boy said, I want to be a sailor,
And sail on the deep blue sea.
I want to work out on the deck,
And keep it clean as it can be.

Another boy stepped up in the crowd,
Years that are to come a farmer I'll be.
Yes I will cultivate and harvest crops,
To keep this great nation strong and free.

The third bright lad came to the front,
Time we call some day, a preacher I'll be.
I will step right up in the pulpit,
And preach the gospel full and free.

Yes this was quite a conversation,
Between those small boys you know.
Yes they were very busy discussing,
The way in life they'd like to go.

Historic Preservation Conference Scheduled

A two-day conference on historic preservation is scheduled for this month in Winston-Salem.

The Historic Preservation Society of North Carolina, Inc., and the state division of Archives and History join Old Salem Inc. in sponsoring the third annual preservation conference set for April 21-22 at Old Salem.

"New Directions in Preservation" is the theme for the conference, which will include sessions focusing on topics such as "Energy Conservation in the Historic Building", "Urban Revitalization", "Rural Preservation Problems", "Changes in the Tax Laws Affecting Preservation"; and demonstrations of object conservation by the staff of the Museum of Early Southern Decorative Arts (MESDA).

Charles Phillips, director of restoration at Old Salem, will hold on-site lectures about the three restoration projects now underway at the restored Moravian town.

A social hour and dinner at Reynolda House, home of R.J. Reynolds, is one of the social events scheduled for conference participants.

Eight local associations and societies which will be affiliate sponsors of the event include: Ardmore Neighborhood Association, Inc., Chrystal Towers Neighborhood Association, Inc., Historic Winston, Inc., Reynolda House, Inc., Wachovia Historical Society, Washington Park Neighborhood Association, Inc., West End Association, Inc., and West Salem Residents Association.

Tom Gray, curator of MESDA, and president of the N.C. Preservation Society, predicted that this year's conference program will be outstanding, with a number of nationally known preservation experts as speakers.

The public is invited. Registration information is available from Mrs. Frances Whitley, executive secretary of the society or C. Greer Suttlemyre, Jr., of the Archives and History staff, conference coordinator. Write: 109 E. Jones St., Raleigh, 27611; or telephone (919) 733-4763 or (919) 733-7862.
