WOODY ALLEN COMEDY — "Don't Drink The Water", a comedy written by Woody Allen, will be presented by the John A. Holmes High School Drama Club, May 11-13. Taking place in an American embassy in a communist country, the plot involves an American caterer and his wife who are suspected of being spies. Above is a scene from the play in which a Catholic priest, who practices magic, finds his stunt rabbit about to become the main course for supper. Tickets may be purchased from any drama student. Admission is $2.50.

Holmes Students Present Play

John A. Holmes High School will be presenting a play on May 11, 12, and 13 entitled, "Don't Drink the Water." It is an original comedy written by Academy Award-winning Woody Allen who received awards for best movie, best actor, and best director in 1978 for "Annie Hall". "Don't Drink the Water" takes place in an American Embassy somewhere behind the Iron Curtain. The first person you will meet is Father Drobney, portrayed by Darryl Banks. He has been trapped in the Embassy for six years. He has taken up many hobbies and creates total chaos whenever he leaves his room. Ambassador MaGee, portrayed by Luke Amburn, has to leave the Embassy to his son Axel. Axel MaGee is the main character of the play. He has had several jobs in other embassies none lasting over two weeks. He is a real klutz. Bobby Dail portrays Axel.

(Howard Sutton) and Walter Hollander do not get along and harm an international deal. The Sultan's wife appears with him on his visit. She is Gail Gurnee. Kasnar, portrayed by Penny Jo Powell, and Countess Bordon, played by Donna Keel, are two foreign dignitaries. Tickets can be bought from any Drama student at $2.50. "Don't Drink the Water" will keep you laughing.
