ESAA Project Expected To Receive Favorable Report

Each year as required by federal regulations, an evaluation of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, ESAA, Title I project is conducted in the Edenton-Chowan School System. According to Jim Kinion, Title I project director, initial indicators are that "things look good, but the final evaluation report will not be received for about ten days." The good things referred to by Kinion are the four remedial math and four remedial reading labs serving approximately 300 students at Swain, Walker and White Oak schools. These labs are staffed by eight professionals and four aides who work closely with regular classroom teachers to give students extra help and instruction in the needed areas. Students attending labs leave their regular classrooms at an appointed time to attend these labs. At Chowan Junior High the Title I project operates a little differently. There, three certified instructors and two aides serve as resource teachers in the different classrooms, as opposed to a pull-out, separate lab. Approximately two hundred students benefit from the services in this manner. Over a two day period last week, Wendall Hall, the Regional Coordinator for Compensatory Education was in Edenton to monitor the system's program. He mainly checked the administrative parts of the project according to Kinion. When asked what is looked for during an evaluation, Hall stated, broadly, "to see if the program is being implemented according to the way the project was approved. The overall instructional program, being given to students is the most important. How the lab teachers and the regular classroom teachers work together and communicate in planning the student's individual academic program is another. Hall's evaluations included discussion with the administrative staff, principals in the target schools, conferences with each of the classroom and lab teachers and aides. He also talked with the PAC Home School Coordinator and Mrs. Ethel Rogers, chairman of the Parent Advisory Council and classroom volunteers about their provided services and functions. In addition to the remedial math and reading instruction, Edenton-

Chowan's 1980-81 $307,057 budget allotment provides the supportive services of a Parent-Advisory Council - Home School Coordinator. Mrs. Gerri Fry serves in this capacity working closely with school personnel, the family and community agencies to provide limited health and clothing needs to eligible students. Edenton-Chowan's Title I program activities are geared mainly to the top priority of reading, with eligible students also being served in math. Eligibility is mainly determined by standardized test scores. The goal of the compensatory educational program is to raise the educational level of eligible students to that which is appropriate for children of their age.

New House Appointments Made

RALEIGH — Reps. Vernon James of Pasquotank and Charles D. Evans of Dare have been appointed chairmen of committees in the General Assembly by House Speaker Liston B. Ramsey. Rep. James is chairman of the House Agriculture Committee. Rep. Evans heads the House Governmental Ethics Committee. James, long active in North Carolina farm affairs, has chaired the Agriculture Committee the past two years and is one of its senior members. He represents the First House District, made up of Camden, Chowan, Currituck, Dare, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Tyrrell and Washington counties.

In making the announcement, Ramsey said: "Vernon James is an experienced and highly capable legislator and I am confident he will provide strong leadership to the Agriculture Committee." James, a native of Pasquotank County, is a farmer and operator of a farm produce supply business. He was educated at North Carolina State University and is a trustee of the College of the Albemarle. He and his wife, the former Selma Willard Harris, have two children and live on Route 1, Elizabeth City. During the 1979-80 General Assembly he served on the committees on Appropriations, Commercial Fishing, Courts and Judicial Districts, Judiciary

I, Local Government I, Natural and Economic Resources and Wildlife Resources. An attorney and native of Manteo, Evans is a graduate of the University of North Carolina School of Law. He has served as an officer of the Albemarle Law and Order Association and as a member of the North Carolina Coastal Resources Commission. Rep. Evans served six years in the Army Reserve and was honored by the Jaycees in 1976 as one of the

Special Film To Be Shown

Continued from Page 5-A modern world is the rapid rise of Russia to the place of one of the great nations of the world. Only 20 years ago Russia was a broken nation...its manpower destroyed, its cities in ruins, and its industries disorganized. Today, unquestionably, Russia is one of the great military and political powers of all history. What does the Bible say about this great power? How does this nation fit in God's plan? Questions are dealt with in this unusual film which will be presented at First Assembly of God Church on U. S. 17 - business south on February 8, 7 P. M. You are cordially invited to attend.
