Lloyd is also no stranger in conservation circles throughout North Carolina and across the nation. He is one of the few who are true ambassadors from Northeastern North Carolina.

He has served his county, state and nation well. It is fitting that he was recently recognized by the N. C. Association of Conservation Districts for 35 years of service as a Conservation District Supervisor.

The award is deserved. Lloyd was cited not only for his length of service but for his outstanding leadership and dedication to the soil and water conservation program.

He has served as chairman of the Albemarle Conservation District for 33 years. In 1967 he was president of the state association and served for seven years as Area Five chairman-which consists of 16 Northeastern North Carolina counties

Lloyd Bunch seems to just keep on keeping on. He is dedicated to the causes he champions. His good work is known far and wide.

Guest Editorial

Lawhorn recently presented an editorial over WRAL-TV in Raleigh which is food for thought for those along the Public Parade as well. It is titled: "Disruption In the Classroom" and follows:

We may be approaching a time when we will need a new form of segregation in our schools ... not segregation by race, but segregation of law-abiding students from those who continually cause problems.

A generation or two ago, the vast majority of students did not have to tolerate those students who caused violence, crime, drug and alcohol abuse, and so forth. Such students were expelled, even sent to reform school.

But for some years now, the general atmosphere of permissiveness has tolerated such students to such an extent that they have become a major disruptive force, in some schools.

It's time to put an end to that. Students who are trying to get an education do not deserve to have to put up with serious distraction and harassment in the classroom.

Many school officials no longer believe in expelling students permanently, but at least such students could be sent to separate schools, until their behavior im-

Law-abiding students ... and their teachers ... should not have to tolerate chronic disruption in the classroom.

Memo On Budget

Cliff Copeland, genial Chowan County manager, recently fired off a memo to Dr. John Dunn, superintendent of Edenton-Chowan Schools, on the subject of budgets. While at Monday night's meeting Edenton-Chowan Board of Education took issue with some of the figures cited in the memo, the document is among the better ones we have seen between agencies along the Public Parade.

A big issue is being made by school officials about total resources available to the county, not just property tax. By the same token, everyone knows there are many more departments with many more requests than just schools. This is why we consider the Copeland memo to be of sufficient importance to print it here.

It follows: During the last couple of days I have had an opportunity to discuss with the Board its feelings relative to the implementation of an ROTC program in Chowan County. All agree on the benefits of such a program. All agree, however, that the County cannot possibly

Hospital Adding Nuclear Medicine

Chowan Hospital, Inc., has filed notices of intent for proposed acquisition of nuclear medicine services as well as EEG services. The project cost is estimated to cost $338,777.

The capital expenditure for the nuclear medicine services is to be completed in January, 1983.

David Henson, hospital director, explained that the EEG is a diagnostic service known as electroencephalogram.

The new projeccts are part of a long-range plan the hospital has undertaken. A Certificate of Need is in hand for expansion of ancillary services and approval is now being sought to add 10 acute care beds to the hospital.

Chowan Hospital was successful in getting the State Health Plan amended to add 10 beds for Region "R". The application for a certificate has already been approved by the Project Review Committee of Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency in Greenville.

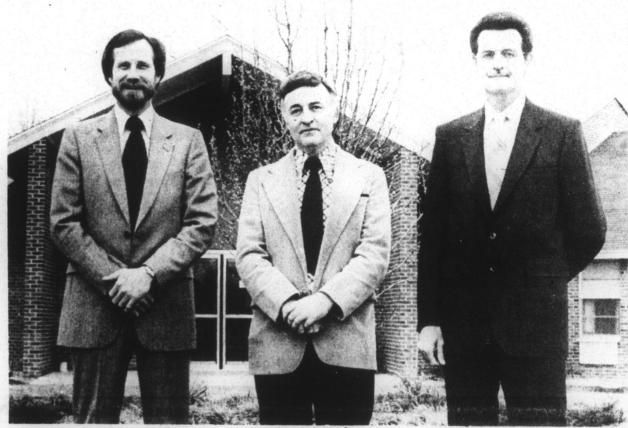

The project proposals have been submitted to the Certificate of Need Eection, Division of Facility Services, N. C. Department of Human Resources, for review by planning agencies under provisions of the Social Security Amendments of 1972 and Chapter 131, Article 18, of the General Statutes of North Carolina.

The planning agencies, in examining the proposal, will seek to determine whether the project is needed, if it can be adequately staffed and operated, whether it is economically feasible within prevailing rate structures, and it if proposes specific containment features.

In its role as coordinator of project reviews under Section 1122 of the Social Security Art and the Certificate of Need Program, the Certificate of Need Section will receive the advice of the regional agency about the conformity of the project to their standards and criteria.

The department will then decide on the recommendation to be made to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services concerning Section 1122. The Department of Human Resources is the final authority with respect to decisions made under Chapter 131, Article 18, of the General Statutes of North Carolina

Adams Sentenced For Wine Theft

A bottle of "Wild Irish Rose" wine recently got a local Negro into a bunch of trouble. Ritchie Adams was given an 12 to 18 month term for larceny of the bottle and an additional 30 days for assault.

The charges grew out of an incident at S&R Super Market the morning of February 3.

Adams, who resides on Mosley Street, was convicted of the two counts in Chowan County District Court on February 10. Judge Richard Parker of Elizabeth City entered the judgment.

Testimony showed that Adams stole a bottle of wine at about 9:15 A. M. and ran from the store. Johnny Copeland, an employee at S&R gave chase. As Copeland gained on Adams the suspect turned around and hurled the bottle at Copeland, striking him in the head.

Adams was arrested a short time later by an Edenton policeman.

In the announcement, Cape Colony Haven, Inc., owners--L. F. Amburn,, Jr., president; John F. Habit, vice president; and John A. Mitchener, Jr., secretarytreasurer -- said the addition is expected to cost nearly $700,000.

William P. Rawls, president of SouthEastern, said approximately 16 new jobs will be created. pushing the annual payroll to nearly $750,000.
