

Reader Comments On Suspension Of Teacher

Do you think you have job security? Consider the plight of Haywood Harrell of Edenton, N. C.: a man with 37 years experience in construction and 11 years teaching vocational education in the public high schools of our state, including 10 years at Northeastern High School, Elizabeth City, Pasquotank County, N.C., a tenured employee. Mr. Harrell was recently suspended, without pay, concerning the feasibility or safety of the project, the Elizabeth City - Pasquotank County School Board ordered Mr. Harrell to have his bricklaying classes (21 students) construct a brick building on the campus at Northeastern approximately 100 feet long and 17 feet high. Since one man cannot adequately supervise the work of students on a wall 100 feet long and since it would require three tiers of scaffolding, Mr. Harrell advised the powers that be that this project was unsafe for the students and he could not supervise it. He was then ordered to commence construction immediately. The bricklaying students, parents of the bricklaying students, many other students, and some of the teachers supported Mr. Harrell's position. The parents of the bricklaying students wrote letters to the principal stating their sons were not going to work on this dangerous project. Some 200 students participated in a peaceful protest in front of the school before classes one morning, but went into their classrooms when they were ordered to do so. After all this, the school board, without once consulting with Mr. Harrell, suspended him without pay, apparently on the sole recommendation of a man in his first year as principal at Northeastern High School. Consider again, teachers, your own job security. A tenured employee was suspended without pay and ordered off the campus on one hour's notice, without being granted a hearing before the School Board.

This is a matter of grave concern to the teachers of North Carolina as well as to all parents of students in public schools. Mr. Harrell's personnel file is filled with excellent job performance ratings. His classes have won the top award in the regional vocational contests in seven out of the past 10 years. This is No. One in a field of 17 schools. When competent teachers are shafted like this, how can we as parents expect our students to receive a quality education? Teachers who live in fear of losing their jobs without due process or just cause certainly cannot be expected to continue, and could be forced to seek other, more secure, careers. Mr. Harrell is a teacher who wants to teach. His high moral principles and his concern for the safety of his students have cost him his livelihood. Moral principles are commendable, but put them all in your pocket and take them to the grocery store, and see if you can buy one cabbage, or one potato, with them.

Our elected officials are not responsive to the needs of the community. The children, the parents, the teachers, the VOTERS suffer from it. I urge each of you to contact your elected officials, locally and in Raleigh, and demand that this situation be corrected.

"Abide With Me", a hymn by Henry Francis Lyte in 1847, the year of his death, will be one of Mr. Lyte's hymns sung and studied at the 11 A. M. worship at First Presbyterian Church this Sunday as part of the theme, "A Singing Faith". Mr. Lyte's life lives in the hymns he wrote. "Jesus, I My Cross Have Taken" from Mark 10:28, was written in 1824, when Mr. Lyte's health was broken after a long siege of counseling a dying neighbor
