Week before last, the bill seemed to be running into stronger than expected opposition as it reached the floor of the Senate. After about two hours of sometimes heated debate, the final vote was postponed ostensibly on behalf of Senator Conrad Duncan who asked that he be given time to check with constituents back home.

Those constituents must have had negative feelings since Senator Duncan came back and voted against the legislation. Apparently, those constituents have reason to be negative since some observers feel that small, rural districts like Duncan's 15th will bear with brunt of hazardous waste

The legislation is now in
