Thanks to MOCAP[®], pegging time for peanuts needn't be lunchtime for rootworms.

Mocap[®] nematocidal-insecticide controls Southern corn rootworms which feed on peanuts at pegging time. It also controls nematodes which attack roots, pods and pegs, reducing the quality of your crop and the size of your yields. And Mocap works without injuring the peanuts.
 This season, make sure rootworms and nematodes don't make a meal out of your peanut crop. Just see us. And we'll make sure you get all the Mocap you need.

Mocap[®] is a registered trademark of Mobil Chemical Company, Richmond, Virginia 23261. Use only as directed on the label and observe all use precautions fully.
