Humanities Seminar Is Planned

Three well-known, North Carolina educators and a city planner will conduct a one-day humanities seminar at College of The Albemarle this month. "Economic Development and Its Implications" is the topic of the 8:30 A. M. to 1 P. M. forum on Tuesday, in the lecture auditorium at the college. Pam Whitley, assistant to the president, is coordinator for the lectures. She said funds for the event were provided by a grant from the N. C. Humanities Committee. "Community and area residents are encouraged to attend the lectures," Whitley said. "Events of this nature have been endorsed by the state committee as an extremely effective means of emphasizing this personal, moral, and religious aspects of the humanities for adults."

The Poet's Corner

C'est Automne
 By Murrell Smith

On a yearly occurrence an ocean of green grass seems to turn from green to yellow over night -

The grapes are ripe and in the late afternoon sunshine the sweet scent permeates the air -

Pleasantly down the street as you walk by an orange colored pumpkin sits on a front porch peeping at you, as you walk by - occasionally stripped corn husk is at his side -

Autumn is queen of the sky - children puffing smoke while they run and play in gingerbread colored clothes - little girls pucked their lips - trying to whistle -

Autumn casts deep ink - spots and black shadows where the rabbit darts from shadow to shadow and the fox is not far behind -

Ice crystals thin as a newspaper spun a glimmering sheet over a rain puddle where it evaporates when the sun hits its -

Every tree seems to have been sculptured in relief - the moon makes magic of the night the atmosphere is as brittle as glimmering spun yellow glass -

As the autumn deepens to drawings of the silhouettes outline every person's shadow - every breath is a spun wreath around his head - the shimmering of the roof tops reflected in the sky -

The red cheeks of children peek through silvery coated frosted windows - Autumn waits for the prelude of winter -

C'est Automne - with it's hint of cold in the air - it's smell of burning leaves -

C'est moi Automne where does the honest face of hospitality expand into a broader and more cordial smile -

Where is the sky glance of love more sweetly eloquent than by the autumn fireside -

The pitchy gloom fades and the heart is happy of entering a room fill with the glow and warmth of the evening fire -

The ruddy blaze diffuses an artificial summer and sunshine through the room -

"The Mousetrap"

Drama Club Holds Play

"The Mousetrap" is one of the longest running plays in the history of English theatre. It first opened in 1952, and is still being performed in London. This spine-tingling murder whodunit will be presented here in Edenton by Holmes Drama Club.

Performance dates for "The Mousetrap" are Thursday through Saturday, November 19, 20, and 21. The play will begin at 8:00 each evening in the Holmes Auditorium with admission charge of $2.50 per person. Cast members include Harriet Abbe, Cary Parker, Eric Strother, Rhonda Mizelle, Martin Mansfield, Stephanie Hampton, Frank Parrish and Eric Rose. From the first strains of "Three Blind Mice" until the final discovery of the murderer, there are many moments of personal conflict and soul searching to find which of the eight snow-bound residents of Monkswell Manor Guest House is guilty of murder. During each performance, there will be a contest to see which viewer can discern the identity of the killer before intermission. The winner each evening will receive a gift certificate.

Plan now to see this great play by the late Agatha Christie - one of the world's best-loved mystery writers. This play is Agatha Christie at her finest art. Don't forget - November 19 through 21 at 8 P. M. in Holmes Auditorium for "The Mousetrap".

A bulb-making capacity and the six petals to all its blooms mark all the members of the lily family. Thus, the calla, with its single bowl, is not a member of the lily family at all.

Leaf Burning Safety Precautions Urged

It's that time of year again! Time to get out the old rake, roll-up your sleeves, and rake those leaves.

Do you remember when nothing was more fun than a flying leap into a freshly raked pile of leaves?

Somewhere along the road from carefree childhood to responsible adult, autumn leaves become less appealing.

Instead of frolicking in the leaves, residents are faced with the annual task of raking and disposing of them.

To avoid the obvious risk of uncontrolled fires resulting from careless leaf burning, here are some things to keep in mind:

1. When burning leaves 500 feet or less from a wooded area, you must obtain a burning permit. (Some cities consider open leaf burning illegal.)

2. Leaf burning could create air pollution which could affect the health of people with respiratory problems.

3. Burning leaves on the street may cause damage to the street.

4. If you own some acreage or have a garden, composting is one of the best alternatives for disposal. Composting is a recycling process that converts leaves, grass and vegetable clippings into a soil-enriching fertilizer.

5. If you live in the city and have a small yard, rake leaves into piles and bag them for the city to pick up.

6. In some communities, residents can rake leaves out into the street and the truck will come and vacuum the piles.

7. Check to see what services are available in your community.

8. Never burn leaves on a windy day.

9. Never burn leaves on a windy day.

10. Always make sure you have the proper equipment at-hand to put out the fire.
