OVER 300 PEOPLE ATTEND MEETING — Lloyd C. Bunch, Albemarle District Chairman is shown presenting the nominating committee's list of officers for 1982 at the 26th Annual Area Five Meeting of the N. C. Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts. Bunch served as Chairman of the nominating committee. More than 300 people attended this meeting held at the American Legion Building in Edenton on November 10. Guest speaker for the occasion was Dr. Frank Humenik, Professor of Biological and Agricultural Engineering at N. C. State University. M. E. "Red" Knight from Gates County was re-elected for another year as Chairman of the 16 county area.

White Elected President Of State Home Economics Assn.

Ila Grey White became the president of the North Carolina Home Economics Association at the 64th Annual Meeting in Raleigh last week. She is the Area Home Economics Extension Agent with the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service and works in the Northeastern District. "Inflation, Frustration or Challenge" was the theme of the annual meeting.

Dr. Naomi Albanese, Dean of School of Home Economics, UNC-G, gave a speech, "A Multiplying Factor". Dr. Jane Coulter, Deputy Assistant Director of Higher Education, addressed the topic, "Home Economists - A Scarce Resource Throughout the Decade".

Dr. Mildred Griggs, Department of Vocational Technical Education, University of Illinois, spoke on "Home Economists Helping to Meet the Challenge of Inflation". The topic by Dr. Elizabeth Koontz, Assistant State Superintendent, N. C. Public Instruction, was "Home Economists - Politicians". There are approximately 1,200 members in the North Carolina Home Economics Association.
