Death Claims
Mrs. Jordan

Mrs. Isa Dail Jordan, 76, of Rt. 3 Edenton died November 16, at UNH of the Chowan Hospital after an extended illness. A member of the Center Hill Baptist Church, she was the wife of the late Jesse Nearest Jordan.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. W. Earl Smith of Edenton, Mrs. Norman Harris of Chowsonville, N. C., and Mrs. J. Duling of Triangle; three sons, J. Haywood Jordan of Mr. Airy, N.C., James Jordan of Hertford, N.C., and Edgar Ray Jordan of St. Pauls, N.C.; two brothers, Percy Dail of Edenton and Thomas Dail of Hertford, N.C.; one sister, Mrs. William Corbett of Hertford, N.C.; 13 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 2 P. M. on November 17 at Center Hill Baptist Church by Rev. Donald Wagner. The family met at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Earl Smith of Edenton. Pallbearers for the funeral were her grandsons, Willford-Barham Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Letter To The Editor

Since I am shut out of our Biblical Recorder forum, I used leaflets and display boards at the recent Baptist State Convention in Greensboro. These charts were set up inside the Greensboro Coliseum to inform my fellow Baptists about the status of integration at Baptist Schools in North Carolina. These charts showed Chowan and Gardner Webb with over seven percent student integration. Campbell and Wingate showed six per cent, Wake Forest and Mars Hill about four per cent and Meredith slightly over one per cent. These figures were secured from a UNC report.

I presented the figures I received in 1979 concerning integration of faculty and other employees. All the schools except Wake Forest and Gardner Webb have refused to give any information concerning integration since 1979. The 1979 figures showed twelve black faculty out of several hundred. Chowan and Campbell had no black faculty in 1979. Although several hundred black persons are employed at Baptist schools, almost all of these employees are in the lowest paid jobs. Very few black persons are in staff positions.

With this background, I felt it was time we Baptist put our claims of concern, compassion and love for black persons into a positive show of concern.

I made the following motion: That black persons would be given preferred consideration in all convention and agency employment until their representation at all levels of employment make this practice unnecessary.

This motion was seconded. It was attacked. A substitute motion to make my motion a suggestion to our convention, therefore non-binding was defeated overwhelmingly. At that point our convention used a time honored procedure to avoid any commitment and more importantly any embarrassment. A motion to table was made by a very prominent Baptist leader. This motion passed overwhelmingly with an obvious sign of relief.

This motion, and more importantly, this issue will not rest undisturbed on our under our Baptist table.
