Cheerleaders Go To Camp

The varsity cheerleaders of Lawrence Academy participated in a summer training camp at Old Dominion University, Norfolk, Va. from July 6 to 9. The camp was one of many that is sponsored nation - wide by the Universal Cheerleaders Association each year. Cheerleading fundamentals were taught along with instruction in dance routines, sideline chants, and pyramids. The fifteen squads were evaluated after each session and the Lawrence Academy squad received blue ribbons for a superior performance at the final session on Friday. Members of the 1982 - 83 squad who attended the four - day workshop were: Jennifer Jernigan - captain, Kim Daniels - co - captain, Beth Blackburn, Kris Barnes, Annalisa Carawan, Lindley Chappell, Jennifer Davenport, and Amy Hamilton.

State labor department investigations found more than three-quarters of a million dollars owed to Tar Heel workers in 1981, N.C. Labor Commissioner John C. Brooks said.

"This record amount, $782,299 for 3,020 workers, is a 20.2 per cent increase from the $650,583 reported due to 3,495 workers in 1980, and the 1980 figure itself had been a new high," Brooks said.

Brooks also reported an increase in the number of youth employment violations found in 1981. Department investigations determined that 807 youths under 18 years of age were illegally employed in North Carolina, up 47.3 per cent from 548 cases in 1980. Penalties levied on employers for such violations totaled $25,586 a 124.7 per cent increase from $11,388 in 1980.

are continuing. "When our compliance officers find wages due, the majority of North Carolina employers cooperate promptly to restore such money to employees. The difference between the total due and the amount actually recovered indicates that we have some claims which are still pending, others in negotiation and some which may require litigation," Easterly explained.

Investigations and subsequent collections by the wage and hour division for over-time, minimum wage, wage payment and youth employment violations are authorized under provisions of the 1979 Wage and Hour Act of North Carolina.

According to Easterly, by far the largest portion of wages found due from North Carolina employers come under the law's wage payment provision, which established rules on pay periods, payments to separated employees and procedures for the withholding of wages. Wages are defined to include sick pay, vacation pay, severance pay, commissions, bonuses and other amounts promised, when the employer has a policy or practice of making such payments.

Payments due under the wage provision totaled $626,071 for 2,270 workers in 1981. This compares with $516,431 for 2,523 employees in the previous year.

Under the minimum wage provision, $99,933 was owed to 470 employees. In 1980, $98,002 was found due to 592 employees.

Wage and hour compliance officers also found $56,295 due to 280 employees for over-time work, and increase from $36,150 for 380 workers in the previous year.

Commissioner Brooks reminded North Carolina employers and employees that the wage and hour division is both a service unit and an enforcement arm of the department.

"We encourage business, civic and educational groups to schedule a public service program available

Letter To The Editor

The Catholic Youth Organization would like to Thank all the people in the area that brought their vehicles to our car wash this past Saturday.

This was our first car wash, and needless to say we were not completely organized, and some of our work was not perfect. But we feel as if we have learned something from this experience. And if in the future we decide to hold another car wash, we will put to use what we have learned. With the help of all of you terrific people we were able to raise $140.00. This was the first of many activities planned for the coming year. And with your help it was a big success. Thanks again, and God bless each and everyone of you.
