January 18, 1983

Game 2 saw the Hornets steal the inbounds pass and go the length of the court for the game winning basket. Keyel Willis led the Hornets with 5 points. Trevor Gaskins had all 6 for the Bees.

Weyerhaeuser Highlights

New Assignments For Two At Plymouth Fiber

New assignments involving new and expanded responsibilities have been given to two managers at Plymouth Fiber, according to manager Paul Schmitt.

John Pritchard, who joined the company in 1973 after graduating from North Carolina State University, has been named Energy and Process Control Manager for the Plymouth Pulp and Paper Operations. His appointment is effective immediately.

In his new role, John will take on new responsibilities for process control in all the fiber operations at Plymouth and will continue playing a key role in the energy management for the mills.

Dick Evans, who has recently completed a tour of duty as project engineer on the installation of the extended nip technology on Plymouth's NC-1 paperboard machine, has been named Project Manager for Fine Paper Projects. Effective this month, Evans will begin reporting directly to Schmitt and will direct his attention to special projects supporting production manager Mike City.

Evans came to Weyerhaeuser Company in 1973 after completing work for an engineering degree at the Citadel.

Garland Gaskin's Gadget Forestry personnel in

Neuse District have developed a new fire tractor attachment which will reduce down time and save money by extending the useful life of tractors. Forestry foreman Albert Gaskins, tractor operator Garland Gaskins, site preparation leadman Gerald Furman and Frank Whitford combined their talents recently to construct a device to solve problems of relogging old fire lines.

The innovation consists of two small blades attached to the front of the tractor allowing it to create a new fire lane, providing a smooth level surface on which the tractor can move. This reduces strain on the tracks and saves time and money.

According to District Forester Tom Vigour, the Neuse District plows about 300 miles of presuppression lines each year along public road frontage as part of a protection program against intentionally set wild fires and other forest fire dangers.
