Food Cost Stable

By Joan Gosper
N.C. State University
There will be good news for consumers at the supermarket checkout in 1983. Analysts predict bumper grain harvests will help keep the price of groceries from going up more than 5 to 6 per cent.

Food costs went up 10.4 per cent in 1978; 9.5 per cent in 1979; 8 per cent in 1980; 7.3 per cent in 1981; and 5 per cent in 1982, says Rachel Kinlaw, extension food specialist at North Carolina State University.

"The ample supplies of grain will encourage farmers and ranchers to produce more beef, pork and poultry. These increased supplies will start having an impact at the supermarket in the second half of the year," Kinlaw says.

Those who dine out will also see costs moderating in 1983. Menu prices rose almost 10 per cent annually from 1979 through 1981, about 6 per cent in 1982 and is likely to remain in the 5 to 6 per cent range in 1983.

Concerns Over Budget Deficit

Thomas I. Storrs, chairman and chief executive officer of NCNB Corp., is among a group of prominent business and government leaders supporting a public appeal to President Reagan and the Congress to come to grips with the problem of the Federal budget deficit.

"Despite the budget actions of 1981 and 1982, the deficit just topped 100 billion dollars for the first time in history and will rise beyond 200 billion dollars - 5 to 6 percent or more of GNP - by the mid-1980s. After 1985, the deficit outlook actually worsens," the ad says.

Storrs said he is concerned that if action is not taken to bring Federal budget deficits under control, the American economy will continue to stagnate, meaning more unemployment and less real income for Americans with jobs.

"Our concern is that these projected deficits will absorb the investment capital America needs for productive jobs and real income for tomorrow," Storrs said.

Research Foundation Awarded Grant

The N.C. Hospital Education and Research Foundation has been awarded a grant of $190,000 by The Duke Endowment for assistance in the development of the N.C. Consortium on Health Care Resources Data.

The appropriation, made by the endowment trustees, will fund the first year of a three-year period to establish the data program, which will develop a comprehensive long-range plan to collect, maintain and publish health care data for North Carolina.
