

CHALK DUST

.....A Look At Area Schools

During the inspection of conditions at the Alternative School, Principal and Woman of the Year, Clara Boswell had time to chat with Board Chairman, Cecil Fry.

Did you know about this?

1. One of the purposes of the Community Schools Program is to maximize the use of school facilities by the schools, and the community at large. This works very successfully in Edenton-Chowan Schools as evidenced by the activities on last Friday and Saturday.

The music from the NJROTC Band had scarcely left the Student Commons/Cafeteria area before the Edenton Rotary Club turned up to begin preparation for their Pancake and Sausage Breakfast.

Games played

In observance of Black History Month, Ms. Sutton's fourth grade class enjoyed playing a social studies game based on the television show "Jeopardy".

We used two categories: "Black History" and "North Carolina History". The students enjoyed playing this game very much.

"Program Outreach" came to White Oak Elementary School Wednesday. A presentation in correlation with our marine life unit delighted our students.

Terry Kirby and Peggy Pruett from the Marine Resources Center made the ocean and its creatures come to life. "Mysteries of the Deep", a Walt Disney movie, was shown.

They brought starfish, clams, oysters, sea urchins, and a horseshoe crab which the students were able to touch. Needless to say, it was a great experience.

CJHS science fair held

On February 25 and 26, Chowan Jr. High held its third annual Science Fair. Student projects were displayed in the gym for the student body and for judging by a panel of judges selected from the community.

The projects, which were started earlier this year, employ the steps of the scientific method. Once the purpose of the project was decided upon and a hypothesis was formulated, a student had to experiment, observe what happened, and collect his/her data. The final step was then to draw a conclusion based upon the results.

This year's winners for the seventh grade were as follows: First Place - Wynn Van Duyn; Second Place - Melissa Lawrence; Third Place - Robert Winborne; and Honorable Mention - Sterling Baker.

Several schools this year are recognizing "Classy Student of the Week" to promote our annual theme, Edenton-Chowan Schools Have Class.

All members of the Edenton-Chowan Board of Education plus candidates for several seats on the board inspected the conditions in all our schools at a special retreat held on Feb. 21 & 22.
