

Edentonians Are Chosen

MURFREESBORO—Glenda Jones and Sandra Louise White, both graduates of John A. Holmes High School, Edenton, have been selected to serve as resident assistants in Belk Hall, Chowan College, for the 1987-88 term. Belk Hall, a three-story, fully air-conditioned facility for women, was constructed in 1964 and named in honor of Mrs. Erwin Belk of Charlotte.

"Resident assistants are in charge of a floor in their residence hall. These assistants are screened and trained. They are held in high regard. As a two-year residential college where approximately 93 percent of the students live on campus, the residence hall experience is viewed as an important part of one's formal education," said Associate Dean of Students J. Earl Dilday, who is responsible for residence hall life at Chowan College.

Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Douglas Jones, Edenton, is studying business administration at Chowan College. White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Wallace White, Jr., Edenton, is studying art education.

Chowan is a two-year residential college with 900 students who represent 20 states and 14 countries. It offers over 40 associate degree programs.

Investments To Be Study Topic

When your name is announced on national TV as the newest trillion-dollar sweepstakes winner, you may need some help, before and after taxes, in managing your windfall.

"You and Your Money," a course that is scheduled to begin on June 2 at College of The Albemarle, can help both new and experienced investors to make better decisions when developing investment strategies, according to Oscar B. Porter.

Porter, an investment representative with Edward D. Jones & Co., will teach the summer continuing education course at the community college. Classes will meet from 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. each Tuesday through August 4 in Room A-229.

A broad spectrum of topics will be covered, including why people fail at investment and eight rules for successful investing. The instructor also will spend time discussing stocks and mutual funds, options in tax-advantaged investment, life insurance, and financial planning as components that help to assure a sound financial future.

A $15 registration fee will be charged for the course. Registration will be held during the first two class meetings.

Clothes Drive Sponsored

The Church World Service Clothing Drive truck will be in Elizabeth City during the week of June 8-12. If you have clothes for this event, please bring it to City Road United Methodist Church during the week of June 1-5.

Charles McKenzie, pastor, says, "We cannot accept clothing at any other time due to space limitations. All clothing must be boxed and labeled with no more than 40 pounds in each box." He adds, "No plastic bags will be accepted."

NURSING CEREMONY HELD—Sara Wilson of Edenton was among the 14 women who received a second stripe on their nurses' caps during a ceremony held May 7 at Albemarle Hospital. The stripe signifies the successful completion of the first of a two-year COA Associate Degree Nursing Program.

Wilson Attains Senior Status

Nursing student Sara Wilson of Edenton received a second stripe on her nurse's cap during a May 7 ceremony at Albemarle Hospital, Elizabeth City. The stripe denotes that Mrs. Wilson has successfully completed the first year of nursing education in the College of the Albemarle's two-year Associate Degree Nursing Program.

Mrs. Wilson was one of 14 women to be so honored at the ceremony. She plans to graduate in May 1988, at which time she will be eligible to take state examinations for registered nurse licensure.

She is the wife of Larry Wilson, and the mother of four daughters - Karen, Dawn, Laura and Lynn.

Other students honored during the ceremony were: Judith East and Barbara Marcello of Camden; Rhonda Jones and Darlene Roberts of Shawboro; Sharon Werner of Hertford; and Juanita Bostic, Helen Clark, Medina Jones, Valerie Massa, Amy McGinnis, Susan Miller, Sharon Spence and Lisa Smith, all of Elizabeth City.

New Members Are Appointed

Three new members have been appointed to the Advisory Committee for the North Carolina Aquarium on Roanoke Island.

New members appointed by the North Carolina Department of Administration are: Carol Dillon Dawson of Buxton, a homemaker and businesswoman active in school volunteer activities; Francis S. Voliva of Columbia, Tyrrell County Agricultural Extension Service Director; and Linda S. Willey of Manteo, a homemaker and realtor active in Roanoke Island civic affairs.

Reappointed to three-year terms were Robert "Bob" Moore of Colington Harbour and Gerald D. Perry of Kitty Hawk. Moore, retired, is active in the Coast Guard Auxiliary and has served as a volunteer at the Aquarium. Perry is a retired supervisor with the Division of Marine Fisheries.

The Citizen's Advisory Committee assists the North Carolina Aquarium in its continuing efforts to establish projects and programs. The committee also promotes the Aquarium and assures adequate citizen-consumer input into Aquarium operations.

Dr. J. Parker Chesson, President of College of the Albemarle, serves as Chairman of the Advisory Committee. As committee chairman, he also serves on the North Carolina Marine Science Council.

Other area residents who serve on the Aquarium Advisory committee are: Dan G. Ogden Sr. of Hatteras; William C. "Bill" Meekins Jr. of Elizabeth City; Maxine Britt of Edenton; Michael P. Daniels of Wanchese; Jim Lloyd of Engelhard; Naomi Hester of Manteo and M.E. "Buddy" Lowry of Manteo.

Nelson Is Named To Dean's List

Vickie Nelson of Edenton was among the 180 students named to the Dean's List at Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, for academic achievement during the spring semester of the 1986-87 academic year, according to Dr. F. Mark Davis, dean of the college.

To earn places on the Dean's List, students must achieve at least a 3.30 grade point average for the semester while carrying a minimum of 12 semester hours.

Ms. Nelson is also an honor fraternity member.

Geraniums Easily Grown

The combination of many colors, sizes, shapes and ease of growing make geraniums big favorites in home gardens.

Even gardeners without the "green thumb" touch should be able to grow geraniums. If you have tried growing plants without much luck, try one more time with this hardy plant, suggest agricultural extension specialists at North Carolina State University.

Geraniums can provide masses of color around the home throughout the spring, summer and fall.

Several types are available. Zonal, or common bedding geraniums, are used for decorative purposes either in garden beds or in containers.

Ivy-leaved geraniums are characterized by their trailing vine-like growth habits. They are commonly grown in hanging baskets.

Lady Washington geraniums aren't recommended in North Carolina since they stop flowering in hot weather. The flowers are multi-colored.

Scented-leaved geraniums are grown mainly for their varied fragrances and the exotic shapes of their leaves.

Gardening Guidelines

Most North Carolina soils require large amounts of organic matter to make them suitable for geraniums. Leaf mold, compost and peat moss are good sources of organic matter. Also, when preparing the beds, incorporate two to four pounds of 8-8-8 fertilizer for each 100 square feet of area.

Although the danger of late frost should be minimal in all sections of the state by now, remember for future reference that geraniums shouldn't be planted too early.

Most varieties will do best in full sun. Limited shade won't do too much damage, but flowering may be reduced. They also require large amounts of water, so be ready to provide this if rainfall isn't sufficient.

You may want to add about two to three pounds of 8-8-8 per 100 square feet around August 1. Don't get any of the fertilizer on the leaves.
