

GRIFFIN RANKS HIGH IN STATE COMPETITION

The Edenton-Chowan Schools Transportation Department held its annual Bus Rodeo on May 17, 1999 at the bus/maintenance garage. Pictured (l-r) are 1999 Bus Rodeo winners, Mary Griffin, first place; Pearlle Parks, second place; and Patricia Waff, third place. The bus rodeo is part of a regional and state competition held to test drivers' skills in maneuvering school buses on driving courses. Griffin advanced to regional competition held in Williamston and from there on to the North Carolina School Bus Driving Competition held at Raleigh State Fair Grounds on May 26, where she placed ninth. Griffin, a teacher assistant and school bus driver at White Oak Elementary School competed against 55 drivers from school systems across North Carolina. She has been a school bus driver in the Edenton-Chowan School System for 16 years.

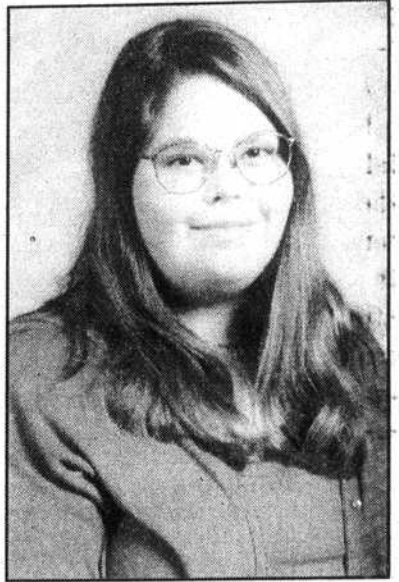

STUDENTS ENJOY LEARNING AT BENNETT'S MILL POND

Chowan Middle School students in Brenda Little's, Connie Cole's, and Michelle Riley's classes recently participated in a field trip to Bennetts Mill Pond. The trip, sponsored by the Albemarle Recreation Center, featured canoeing expeditions, a science/nature walk, and learning to make corn husk flowers.

Powers attends conference

Brianna Powers, a member of the John A. Holmes Class of 2001, is one of only 160 students from around the world selected to participate in an extraordinary leadership program for outstanding high school students.

While attending The National Student Leadership Conference on International Law and Diplomacy, Powers will have the opportunity to explore and experience, firsthand, the world of political decision-making and international conflict resolution.

This summer, gifted high school students from around the United States and over 31 foreign countries will find themselves immersed in a learning environment unlike any they have ever experienced. They may find themselves in a United Nations Security Council briefing where they will assume the role of United Nations delegates in order to discuss a controversial international issue, draft United Nations resolutions, or prepare for an international summit. Students will also attend special workshops designed to help develop their communication and negotiation skills. Special briefings from domestic and international experts add a sense of reality and bring the issues to life. Past speakers have included Senators, Congressional Representatives, Ambassadors, Presidential candidates, Federal and State Court judges, as well as Pentagon and White House officials.

Through participation in this extraordinary eleven day program, students not only develop a better understanding of international law and politics, but they develop the ability to think on their feet, engage in critical analysis, and effectively communicate - skills that will serve them well in high school, college, and beyond.

The NSLC mission is to identify and recognize outstanding young leaders from around the world and provide them with a unique learning environment which encourages not only academic achievement but diversity, cooperation and social responsibility.

"Students develop a sense of independence and responsibility," said Dr. Paul M. Lisnek, the NSLC Director of Academics and former Assistant Dean of Loyola University Chicago School of Law. "They leave with a true feeling of accomplishment and confidence in their ability to handle the challenges that lie ahead."

The NSLC also offers a similar Leadership Conference on Law & Advocacy at Stanford University in Palo Alto, CA and American University in Washington, DC. For additional program information, interested students can contact the NSLC at 1-800-994-NSLC.
