

Kentraile Sanderlin, winner of the Sr. electric competition at the State 4-H Congress

Sanderlin wins state 4H electric competition

Chowan County 4-H'ers participated in the annual State 4-H Congress July 19-23 at North Carolina State University in Raleigh.

Kentraile Sanderlin, 17, whose mother is Vanessa S. Felton of Edenton, was among winners of contests designed to test the knowledge of 4-H'ers about specific subjects. Sanderlin won the senior electric competition with a presentation about lamp rewiring. Sanderlin received a $100 savings bond from North Carolina Electric Cooperatives.

Approximately 850 4-H'ers, volunteer leaders and North Carolina Cooperative Extension agents attended 4-H Congress.

The 4-H program is conducted by North Carolina Cooperative Extension at North Carolina State and North Carolina A&T State universities. More than 275,000 young people between the ages of 5 and 19 participate in North Carolina 4-H activities each year with the help of 25,000 adult and youth volunteers.

Kentraile is a student at John A. Holmes High School and is in the eleventh grade.

Karen Perry, first row, striped shirt, served as a page for the Governor's Press Office this summer.

Locals attend HOBY seminar

Samantha Hewitt (Columbia High School), Renee Perry (John A. Holmes High School), Hollon Skinner (Lawrence Academy), and Erica Sinkovic (Perquiman's County High School) recently attended the Eastern NC Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership (HOBY) Seminar. The event, sponsored by the Raleigh Jaycees, was held this summer at Meredith College, Raleigh.

Actor Hugh O'Brian established the HOBY seminar after a visit to Africa, where he was inspired by Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

"One of the things Schweitzer said to me was that the most important thing in education was to teach young people to think for themselves," O'Brian said. "From that inspiration, and with the support of others who believe in youth and the American dream, I started HOBY to seek out, recognize and develop outstanding leadership potential among our nation's youth."

Perry participates in Page Program

Karen Elizabeth Perry, of Edenton, participated in the Governor's Page Program for the week of July 26 - July 30. Perry spent a week gaining valuable life experience and providing support as a page for the Governor's Press Office.

The Governor's page Program provides students with an opportunity to gain hands-on knowledge of the roles and functions of state government.

During their week of service learning, pages have a chance to attend press conferences, observe commission meetings, and participate in a discussion with Gov. Hunt on current events and issues.

Pages serve the office to which they have been assigned by assisting with day-to-day operations. Some of their responsibilities include delivering legislative bills, filing documents, assisting in mass mailings, answering telephones, and delivering agency messages.

The educational aspect of the page experience includes touring at least one of the following state government buildings each day: the Capitol, the Legislative Building, the Executive Mansion, the Supreme Court, the Museum of Art, the Museum of History, and the NC Correctional Institution for Women.

"The page program is an excellent opportunity for students," said Gov. Hunt.

"It affords them an opportunity to observe first hand how our government agencies operate by participating in the daily tasks of our offices."

Perry is a sophomore at John A. Holmes High School. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Perry.

The one-week program is open to high school students between the ages of 15 and 18, who are in good academic standing at their schools.

Application forms are available year-round, but appointments are made on a first-come-first-serve basis.

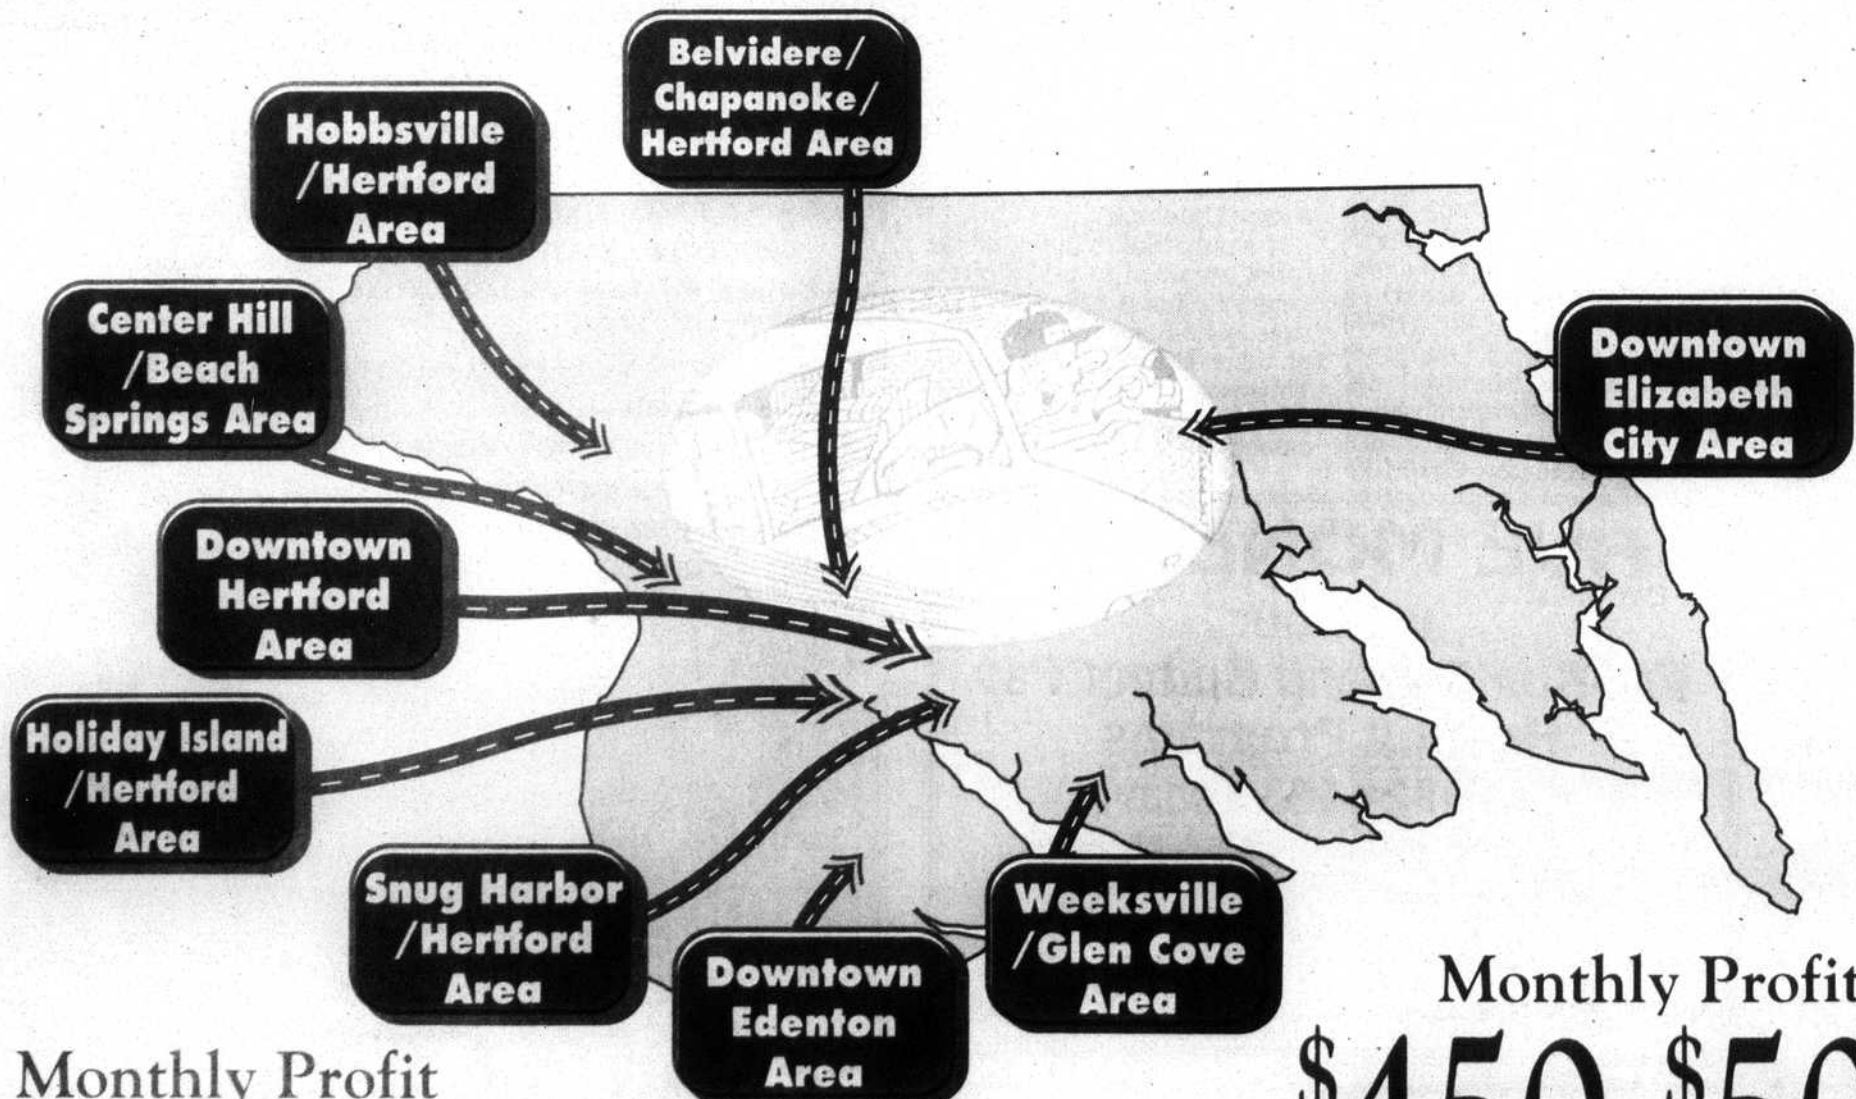

For an application, or additional information, contact the Coordinator of the Governor's Page Program at 919/733-5811, or you can check the program's new internet site at <http://www.governor.state.nc.us/pageprogram>.
