Man faces multiple felonies in assault, robbery

ELIZABETH CITY — A Chowan County man is facing multiple felony charges for allegedly assaulting an Elizabeth City man and then using the man's bank card to help another suspect steal $300, court records show.

Thomas Glenn Bivens, 49, of the 100 block of Riv-

erby Farm Road, Rocky Hock, was arrested April 1 and charged with felony common law robbery, second-degree kidnapping and aiding and abetting common law robbery.

According to an arrest warrant, Bivens helped a man assault the alleged victim on Feb. 28, striking him in the back of the head with a heavy object. Bivens then placed the victim in a headlock and repeatedly struck him in his head and face with a closed fist, the warrant states.

Bivens then helped a woman use the victim's ATM card to withdraw $300 from the man's bank account, the warrant states.

According to the warrant, the alleged victim suffered swelling to his head and face, lacerations and bruises.

According to court records, neither of the other suspects in the alleged assault and robbery have been apprehended by law enforcement yet.

Bivens' secured bond was set at $70,000. Albemarle District Jail officials said they have no record of Bivens in custody, which indicates he posted bond.

On Monday, Bivens appeared before District Judge Amber Davis-Maloney, who set his next court date for May 1.

According to Pasquotank District Court records, Bivens is also facing charges of aiding and abetting prostitution in an unrelated matter.

The charge, which is considered a misdemeanor, stems from his arrest on Oct. 18 for allegedly paying a woman for sex at a local motel, the court records state.

Bivens was released after posting a $2,000 secured bond and is due in district court on that charge April 27.
