A SURGICAL OPERATION

If there is any one thing that a woman dreads more than another it is a surgical operation.

We can state without fear of a contradiction that there are hundreds, yes, thousands, of operations performed upon women in our hos-pitals which are entirely unnecessary and many have been avoided by

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND For areaf of this statement read the following letters.

Mrs. Barbara Base, of Kingman, Karsas, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: For eight years I suffered from the most severe form of female troubles and was told that an operation was my only cope of recovery. I wrote Mrs. Pinkham for advice, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has saved my life and made me a well woman."

Mrs. Arthur R. House, of Church Road, Moorestown, N. J., writes: 1. I feel it is my duty to let people know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from female troubles, and last Liarch my physician decided that an operation was necessary. My husband objected, and urged me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to-day I am well and strong."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN. ham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, and backache.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

A pathetic tale of Esquimau love is told by Lleut. Shackleton, the leader of an Arctic expedition.

A young Esquimau loved an Esquimau lass, but as he had not the necessary number of sealskins to provide the marriage portion required by her father he met with no encouragement from the stern parent. A yawning chasm separated the respective dwellings of the ardent lover and his beloved, which could be crossed only by a snow bridge. The youth conceived a plan. He would cross the snow bridge in the night, abduct the girl and after recrossing destroy the bridge and so prevent pursuit. He carried the plan into effect.

One night he crossed the bridge, invaded the hut of his idol, selzed a sleeping bag and departed, destroying the bridge after he had crossed. Then he opened the sleeping bag and discovered that he had abductednot the girl, but the old man!-Glasgow Herald.

HEALTH AND INCOME. Both Kept Up on Scientific Food.

Good sturdy health helps one a lot to make money.

With the loss of health one's income is liable to shrink, if not entirely dwindle away.

When a young lady has to make her own living, good health is her best asset. "I am alone in the world," writes a

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. J H. MELISH.

Subject: Faith Once Delivered.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The Rev. John Howard Melish, rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Clinton and Montague streets. Sunday morning preached on "The Faith Once Deliv-The text was from Jude 3: The faith which was once for all delivered to the saints." Mr. Melish

A Pentecost seems to be taking place in Korea. Forces, no doubt in large part political and commercial, but also supremely religious and educational, are bringing that Eastern nation to a new birth. Men everywhere are inquiring about the "new religion." Churches are crowded many times a day. Teachers and preachers cannot meet the need. We seem to be witnessing what has not been seen for centuries, a nation turn Christian. What is of great significance in the religious awakening and conversion of Korea is the kind of Christian religion which is receiving this over-whelming response. If the reports are true, it is a religion with two sides. Those who have received it and who are extending it among their fellow countrymen know only "The Father" and "Our Elder Brother." The names which have been and are to multitudes of us Western Christians of value have no existence to those Eastern followers of Jesus, God and Jesus they know, but "Christ" and the doctrines of the Trinity, the incarnation, the atonement, are not even names. Their religion is without dogma.

Is this a sufficient statement of the Christian faith? I do not mean if it is the sum total of the Christian truths. Of course, it is not. Neither do I mean if it is the "irreducible minimum," without which a man can hardly be called a Christian. But is this faith in God as Father, in Jesus as Elder Brother, sufficient for life and death? Can men live by this? Are these the regulative ideas of our religion, the fundamental propositions of which all other truths are corollaries?

Such questions can be answered only by the deep experiences of life. Life, the abundant life, is the test of truth. There are times which try men's souls. Then it is that a man's books are opened, his words are weighed, his traditions are tested. At such moments the soul is concerned not with words, but with realities. He demands real answers for real questionings. Such was the experience of Job when disaster befell him. Under the fire and the whirlwind not only Job's property, but Job's theology, was swept away. Orthodoxy proved too weak to lean upon. Such. too, was the experience of Saul of us, when he discovered that law failed to make men righteous. He was driven by new needs to revolutionize his religion and morals. St. Augustine, Luther, Wesley, also, were men who, face to face with new experiences, as few questions which orthodoxy failed to answer. They were driven to the fundamentals of faith by the facts of life.

If faith in God as Father and Jesus as Elder Brother is sufficient it must answer the deep questionings which spring from the deep experiences of life. These questions are three in number. Behind all philosophies you will find them. To answer them all religions have set them-

The first question is: Is there God, and if there is what is He like? It has its origin in man as a reasoning and moral creature. What is the origin of what we see and feel? Is this universe self-evolved or is it the expression of some power which moves through it and presides over it? If there is such a Power, what is it like? Has it any of the attributes of personality, intelligence, righteousness, love? Behind all human doubts and questionings is this mother of questions, Is there a God? The second question is: When a man sees upon his soul the blot of a sin can it be removed? What theofogians call sin is a universal experience. When Herbert Spencer came to America he was entertained at a banquet by the most learned company which had probably assembled here. At the end of the program of speeches Henry Ward Beecher was called upon. He praised science and eulogized the debt which religion owed the men who toiled so painstakingly to ascertain truth. And then suddenly turning aside, he made an appeal to universal experience. There was not a man there. he said, who had not done something for which he was ashamed, who did not wish he had not done it, who would like to have men know it, who would not if he could wash his soul clear of it. Scientist, philosopher, theologian, statesman in that learned assembly rose to that appeal to universal experience. So say all men. There have been times when sin weighed so heavily upon the consciences of men that they have sacrificed their children, thrown themselves under the car of Juggernaut, fled to monastic penance. His as deep an experience to-day as ever, but it is expressed differently. Has my life been of any use to others? is the question upon man's soul to-day. Not have I done wrong so much as have I done right? His the sense of failure in well-doing that weighs upon men. Sin, individual and social, is a universal and tragic experience. The third question is. When a man dies shall he live again? The sight of a dead face is the mother of all mysteries. It compelled him to ask whether that soul had gone, and in so asking it lifted man's thoughts from the temporal to the eternal, the natural to the supernatural, the human to the divine. Before the experience of death man stands questioning, eager to know, half believing, half afraid, wondering whither his friend has gone and he himself which spring from the deep experi-ences of life. How does faith in God as Father, in Jesus as Elder Brother give sufficient answers?

Is there a God and what is He like? "Yos," says Jesus, "there is a God. He is my Father and your the rest. The slightest movement of Father." Some men there are who the coal truck would have destroyed experience that God is Father. Others can believe only when the sun is bright and the sea is calm. When the storm breaks their hearts faint within them. But the multitude of us men and women are glad that Jesus is part of our life. Our brightest moments of assurance get their light from Him; our darkest moments are not altogether black because He is part of life. It is by faith in His experience, supported by His character, His sanity, His truth, His deeds that we keep faith in God. Faith in the Elder Brother makes us can believe only when the sun is

His fellow children; keep faith in the Father through storm and sun-

When a man sees the cursed spot upon his soul can he remove it? man," said Jesus, "had two sons." painted his soul black with loose and unworthy deeds. When his money was gone he felt his disgrace and shame. He did not commit suicide; he went straight home. No sooner had he reached the road outside the gate when he was halled and his state. father ran to meet him. Whatever the spot may be upon the soul if a man will take his disgrace and shame to God he will find in Him a Father. So with social failure. Is the time short that remains? Waste it not in vain regrets over it. The past is irreparable, but the future is still one's own. "Come let us be going." When a man dies shall he live again? Knowledge gives no better answer than in the days of Aristotle. What seems to be scientific proof, when examined, turns out to be simply man's hone expressed in scientific phrases. But man has trustworthy evidence, not in the spiri-tualistic sense, but in the inference as to what the other world is like from what we know of this, in his hopes and faith, in the testimony of his poets and prophets. And of all such witnesses to life that desires to be eternal stands Jesus, our Elder Brother. Before the gate of death He stands and holds the key. It is sight of Him, master of life and death, that strengthens our faith in the dead and casts about life here and there the golden radiance which surpasses the sunset glow. For all these experiences of life, in answer to all these deep questionings. faith in God as Father, in Jesus as Elder Brother is sufficient. In Korea the Christian Church has learned to ask this faith of its converts and no more. When will the church at home learn this muchneeded lesson? There are questions which this simple faith does not answer. Christianity no sooner had reached the educated Greek than the questions came: What is the relation between Jesus and God? How is the Elder Brother related to the other brothers? What is the true idea of incarnation and of atonement? Men have a right to ask these questions. That right was won long ago by Origen, of Alexandria. But let it be clearly understood that all such matters of speculation, while legitimate. are not the "faith once delivered. The faith once delivered is related to speculative faith, as it historically has found expression in the creeds and doctrines of the church, as the tree is related to its leaves. The faith once delivered, trust in God as Father, in Jesus as Elder Brother is the tree. The creeds and doctrines are the leaves. From season to season they must change as new life pushes off old forms, because the tree itself abides.

I wish I could persuade men who ov retact all them the faith, to see this distinction between faith and creeds. It is possible to reject the latter and live by the former. I wish that I could persuade men who identify faith and creeds to make this distinction. It would do much to win the thinking world to the religion of Jesus. It is a real distinction. The faith once delivered existed many generations before the most venerable creeds of Christendom were born. It will continue to inspire and strengthen men when all our creeds shall have passed away. The faith is once for all delivered.

Subtlest thought shall fail and learning Churches change, forms perish, systems

But our human needs—they will not alter, Christ no after age shall e'er outgrow. Yea, Amen! O, changeless One, Thou only Art life's guide and spiritual goal, Thou, the light across the dark vale lonely, Thou, the eternal heaven of the soul.

IN THE DRUG STORE. Rather a Serious Place Usually, but Funny Things Happen Occasionally. "No, I can't say that we have a large number of comic incidents happening here daily," said the drug clerk. "As a matter of fact, the drug business is inclined rather to the serious side of things naturally; but we do have funny things happen occasionally, like this morning when a little girl came in with a prescription that she said she wanted put up in hatsules.

"'Hatsules?' I says, gort of puzzled like, because for the moment I did not fall to what the little girl meant. "'Yes, sir; hatsules,' she says, just like that, and then it began to percolate through my brain just what the little girl did mean, and I says to her then:

"I guess you mean capsules, don't you? and she says: "'Why, of course I do. Hatsules! she sald and laughed right out asshe said it. 'Of course I mean capsules! How could ever I get it twisted up like that?" "And so we put the medicine up in capsules and the little girl took it and carried it away.

"And really that wasn't the most comic thing that ever happened in the world; but, as I was saying, you don't exactly expect to have funny things happen in a drug store, and so that call for hatsules kept us cheerful here for three-quarters of an hour." -New York Sun.
