Time to Clean House

Winter is about over. Spring is just around the corner. Florida and Southern Georgia tourists will soon be on their way back to the east. Many of them will come through this way to spend a few months in the mountains. Many business men come here throughout the year. If we have a clean town it will make an impression on our visitors; it will have an uplifting effect on us.

Let's all begin at home and clean up around our places of business and around our dwelling houses. Let the town wash the streets and provide trash cans in order to take care of the refuse that has heretofore been swept into them. The new streets will be open in a few days and this will be a good time for a thorough street-cleaning campaign. By all doing a little, we can have a clean town, and still work no hardship on anyone. It'll be worth it!

Letters From the People

Olatustee, Okla., Feb 13 Editor Cherokee Scout:

After reading your February 9th issue I thought I would write you a few lines. I enjoy reading The Scout, first, because it is my old home paper, and second, because it is filled with good clean and interesting reading matter. I can see a wonderful improvement in The Scout in the last few years and I am sure there is a wonderful improvement in the country as a whole. I shall never forget the many good things you people enjoy that we can't. But, on the other hand, we have several advantages over the people there. I don't think I could ever make that my home any more, but I am sure that it is hard to find a better country than dear old North Carolina to live in, considering everything, and my advice to anyone is: If you are satisfied where you are no matter where it be, and have good health, you should not think of moving. That is the reason why I think I will never make my home in Cherokee County, North Carolina, any more.

So far as the people are concerned, I find no difference anywhere. You can always find the class of people you want to associate with no matter what class it is. I have been in twenty-seven of the States of the Union and there are all classes of people in all of them. If I wanted to get in a card game I could go to Murphy and get in one, or you can come to Olatustee, Okla., and get in one. And if I wanted to visit a real Christian home, I could find them in Murphy; you could find them here.

The winter has been very mild here so far, very little ice; but if we had the rainfall you have there, it would be much colder. We have only had about two inches of rain since July 2nd, 1922—just three light rains—one in September, one in November and one last week. However, land is in fine shape to work. The farmers are planning a big acreage of cotton this year. Wheat is poor this time. There will be a large crop of oats and barley sown this spring.

I am glad to know you are pushing the dairy business there. The cow, the sow, and the hen will lift a mortgage from a farm. I see that proven here every day. We have many farmers here who have from 100 to 500 hens, several cows and a bunch of hogs to feed the skimmed milk to. Those farmers always bring more produce to sell than they buy.

Wishing the people of Cherokee County a prosperous 1923, I am,

Sincerely, L. R. JOHNSON.

THE STATE'S WATER POWERS

The following extracts from a letter written by Mr. John H. Stewart to Professor L. E. Mauney, will be of interest to some of our readers.—The Editors.

Nassau, Texas, Feb 14, 1923. Friend Kirk:

I have just received The Scout and read your article on North Carolina water power and write this to thank you for it and hope you sent it to Mr. Dillard and Mr. Walker. I wrote Mr. Walker twice before he went to Raleigh on that subject and Mr. Walker wrote twice since he has been in Raleigh relative to the same matter, suggesting and telling both of these of them that North Carolina's water power is the next biggest matter to children. The legislature should deal with that and, if possible, pass laws for state control of all water power streams even down to the branches to prevent speculators and blood-suckers

THE IMPROVED ASPIRIN TABLET

Tingle's Laxo Aspirin

Aspirin is prescribed by physicians more often than any other drug. It is safest and quickest relief from congestion, pain and fever. TINGLE'S LAXO-ASPIRIN is the new scientific aspirin tablet. It is gently laxative, clearing the system of poisons which are often the cause of pain. Does not cause heartburn or indigestion as ordinary aspirin does. Breaks up a cold—removes the acid and relieves the pain of rheumatism, neuritis and lumbago. Brings almost instant relief in headache and neuralgia. from getting control of water power sites and retarding manufacturing industries until they got their price down or royalty for their use. If laws are not soon passed to prevent such, there will soon be enough of such concerns to combine and prevent the legislature from passing any law they object to.

In my travels I have many times been over every county in the whole mountain range country from New York and Pennsylvania to their terminus in Alabama, and North Carolina surpasses all of them in the number of water power sites, amount of fall in the streams, and when used, North Carolina will beat them all in manufacturing and electric railways. It is just a matter of time and the legislature should begin now to prepare for it. Then every farm will become a truck patch with a market at hand for the products at good prices.

Two little creeks made Andrews. One gives them water and lights, another runs the tannery and another outside runs an ice factory and there's a dozen more as good up Valley River that will in time make the whole valley a beehive of manufacturing industry, and there are hundreds of other creeks and rivers west of the Blue Ridge and as many east of it, and all should be controlled by the State with an iron clad law.

I had no idea of stretching out in a long letter when I began, but I about how water power and good roads would put western North Carolina far in the lead of any other section of State, and have often thought I would like to fly back over the country and see what a hive of well paid and contented workers live there along smokeless railroads and smokeless factories, with fine schools and churches, and everybody happy. And that will happen in the next 100 years. Although the Lord may send me elsewhere with a message, I hope I can pass over western North Carolina, going or coming, and meet some of my kindred and old friends, and you among them.

Your old friend, JOHN. H. STEWART.

grade, with the understanding that they are to take two months work in the seventh grade next year. Eight of Mr. Carroll's student were promoted to higher grades: Carl Hendrix, Mel Sudderth, Edith Sudderth, Loyd Hendrix, Mertie Johnson, Fannie Moss, Lewis Pipes and Willie Johnson.

The following verses have been composed by two students in the Peachtree Schools:

O, the school at Peachtree,
Is towering 'neath the sky;
And she's going to reach the goal,
Aye, by and by.

She's been blessed with able teachers
Yea, the "noblest of the land"
Who are marching to success,
Leaving foot prints on the sand.
Professor Carroll, the principal,
A teacher brave and strong,
Certainly knows how to manage a school,
And push the work along.

Then, there's Mr. Johnson,
A true lover of school,
Who wants to make a nation better,
Using Peachtree as a tool.

And then, there's Mr. Martin,
Who dearly loves the work,
You'll always find him at his post.

Then, there's Mr. Lovingood,
A teacher, kind and true,
Who's always telling boys and girls
Just what they ought to do.

There's Miss McCombs,
Who taught two miles from here,
And that she had a dandy school,
To me is very clear.

Then, there's Mr. Pipes,
A man not young, not old,
But what he taught the children,
Is worth its weight in gold.

And there's Mrs. Puett,
A lady true and good,
And a cap of honor
Shall be her winter hood.

Now, we have one more teacher,
His name is Morrison Moore,
And those who went to school to him
Have knowledge laid away in store.

OUR SCHOOL

You can hear the people talking
For he'll never duty shirk
Everywhere you go,
Of how our school is being taught,
And what the students know,
But I just keep quiet myself,
For it can't be beat at all,
Tis the best school taught at
Peachtree,
That my memory can recall.

I don't see why the people,
Who do not go to school,
Go from place to place tongue-lashing,
Trying to break up our best rule,
If they would only listen,
To their children on the "stays"
They would say that they had needed
Every lick from teachers wise.

So, we should all be thankful,
For the teachers we possess,
For we'll never get the others
Who will always do their best.
We should praise them for their teaching,
We should praise them for their love,

We should praise them for their kindness,
And all other things above.

Now, when we come to say goodbye,
Let's go up with a "grin"
And ask our teachers to come back,
And also tell them when,
For they have labored with us,
These many, many, days,
And surely these good teachers,
Deserve the best of praise.

CHURCH SOCIAL WITH BIG SURPRISE FOR ALL

Electric Lights Brought About a Regular Transformation.

The most memorable church supper and social that has occurred in years in a certain town in the middle west took place last winter. The town is a rural community in the center of a farming territory of considerable extent.

Because of the scattered population the church supper is one of the annual occasions when everybody meets everybody else and a whole year's supply of gossip is exchanged in the course of a single evening. More than that, however, the supper enjoys a big reputation. And when the last one was announced the whole countryside planned to be on hand.

When the farmers began driving in, shortly after dark, they were amazed upon coming in sight of the church to perceive a blaze of light pouring out of every window. Out in one corner of the churchyard a little gasoline engine was chugging away, and inside, suspended from various points about the building, were a number of gleaming electric lights, replacing the battery of kerosene lamps with which the church had previously been lighted.

The curious farm folk soon discovered the "system"—a self-contained farm electric light and power plant, consisting of the gasoline engine, an electric generator, the necessary wiring and the Mazda lamps. It was a contribution to the success of the social by the town's electrical supply agent, and it certainly made a hit. The whole church was filled with the brightness of the lights, and the social atmosphere was greatly intensified thereby.

NEW TOY TO AMUSE CHILDREN IS NOVELTY

The children in many homes are finding amusement through various electrical inventions. There is, of course, the miniature electric train and the miniature electric range, appealing respectively to boys and girls.

Recently there has also appeared a simple but fascinating little toy consisting of a little balloon with a tiny trapeze suspended from it, to which is attached a dainty acrobatic girl. When held over the tube of the electric vacuum cleaner long enough for the current to be turned on the rush of air from the tube will both keep the balloon suspended in the air and will cause the little performer to whirl about on the trapeze to the great delight of small folk of 7 or 8 years. Little electric current is required for this amusement to keep a child pleased for a long period.

MINISTER SAYS IT HAS NO EQUAL

Widely Known Baptist Divine Praises Tanlac For Restoration Of Health

It is doubtful if there has ever been a medicine endorsed by so many ministers of the Gospel as has Tanlac. Indeed there is scarcely a faith, creed or denomination in all the land in which one, or more, of the clergymen has not publicly expressed their indebtedness to the Premier Paration for the benefits they have derived from its use.

One of the latest to speak out in this connection is Rev. B. M. Bridges, a widely-known and beloved Baptist preacher, residing at Moreboro, N. C., whose statement follows:

"Tanlac has given me a good appetite, toned up my system and renewed my strength in such a gratifying way that I am glad to recommend it to anyone who is in a run-down condition. For ten years past I have had such a severe case of indigestion that I could not find anything to eat that agreed with me. Finally I became very nervous and could get but very little sleep or rest.

"It seems that I took nearly everything trying to get myself right, but nothing helped me until I ran across Tanlac. My nerves are so much better now that my sleep is sound and refreshing. I can say from experience that Tanlac is a splendid medicine and tonic, for it has built me up wonderfully."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Adv.

Nervous Break-Down

MRS. ANNIE LANGE, of R. F. D. 1, Burlington, Tex., writes as follows regarding her experience with Cardui: "Some time ago I had a nervous breakdown of some kind. I was very weak and so nervous. I had fainting spells and suffered a great deal, but more from the weak, trembly, no-account feeling than anything else. I knew I needed a tonic, and needed it badly. I began the use of Cardui to see if I couldn't get some strength, as I knew of other cases that had been helped by its use. I soon saw a great improvement, so I kept it up. I used seven bottles of Cardui, and can say the money was well spent, for I grew well and strong. Am now able to do all my household work and a great deal of work besides."

If you are weak run-down, nervous and suffer from the ailments peculiar to women, it is very likely that Cardui will help you, in the way it helped Mrs. Lange and has helped thousands of others, during the past 40 years. Ask for, and insist on, Cardui.
