

MILL CREEK SCHOOL TO CLOSE

The Mill Creek free school will close its longest term of nine months May 4th. The success of this most successful term is due to the skillful management of Mr. Fulton Thomason, of Murphy R-1, Cherokee County. The directors were fortunate in securing Mr. Thomason as teacher for the year, but unfortunate in that they will not be able to secure him for next year, as he is planning to finish school before teaching again. We wish him the greatest success throughout life.—A patron, in Bryson City Times.

Workers of the State College and Sattre Department of Agriculture find that good purebred brood sows have larger litters, which grow rapidly into pork, use less feed per pound and gain more in doing so.

TO MY ASSOCIATE CORRESPONDENTS:

Dear Friends: Ye correspondents, Or everyone who write A friendly Composition To The Cherokee Scout.

I'd like to see your faces, And talk with you about Our town and mountain country, And splendid little Scout.

Say, what about a "vention," Or something sorter like A picnic in remembrance Of the splendid little Scout?

Would be a grand uniting For we folks and Mr. Sipe, To meet with one another And talk about The Scout.

We'd make some demonstrations In such a where-abouts, To raise more corn and "taters" And "vance" the splendid Scout.

I'd like to know your fares From Ever town, and round—I read about your places In the splendid little Scout.

I hope each correspondent Will let me know about My friendly proposition Through the columns of The Scout. YOUR CORRESPONDING FRIEND.

The Shortness of Life.

By Willie K. Johnston.

We might use the grass as an illustration of the life of man. It springs up green and tender, grows to be beautiful, is even adorned with flowers; but its beauty lasts only for a season for, alas! it withers and dies!

So is the life of man. The young tender grass resembles the little infant. When the grass is grown to be tall and beautiful, the boy or girl that has just entered manhood or womanhood, enjoying youth's pleasures and, like the grass withers, so does man become wrinkled and old. Hardly before he realizes it the grim monster, Death, steps into his pathway and takes him a victim.

Life is short, Oh, so short we should not lose any time, for every moment is precious and we can re-live no day.

Yesterday is gone,
Gone forever;
We can call it back
Never, no, never!

If we have not done any good in the days that have passed and gone, let us not spend the future day, in studying about what might have been done in the past. "Let the past dead bury its dead."

We very often hear old people saying, "Oh, if I just had my time to go over I would use it to a better purpose." We should take a lesson from older people, who have experience. They know what it is to idle away time. We think because we are young we have plenty of time to while away a few hours at this thing, and a few hours at another thing, not realizing that those hours spent in fun and foolishness are gone from us forever.

I fear some of us, when we grow older, instead of looking back over our lives and seeing with pleasure the good things we have done, will give a sad glance or two back at the past and give utterance to the words: "O, I have thrown away so many days of my life that I could have used to a noble purpose, but—

"I lived a life of pleasure,
From morning till evening sun,
Only to find in the twilight
That I'd left my work undone."

We are swiftly sailing on life's current and ere long it will bear us to the other side. Then the people will remember us by a little white stone standing at the head of our grave which bears our name.

A few more years,
And the journey will end,
At the home of Jesus,
The sinner's friend.

Our boat will anchor
On the shores of bliss,
Then we'll dwell in a land
More fairer than this.

That beautiful home
I long to see,
Where Jesus reigns
I long to be.

By the grace of God, our Father,
Who my soul from here has brought down,

IT'LL live with saints and angels
Near the shining throne.

Gum-Dipped Cords

Gaining New Fame for Service

194% Sales Increase in Last Six Months

Shows Trend Toward Firestone

The public has emphatically spoken. The popular preference in all territories is unmistakably the Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord.

A standard of service has been set by these famous tires without parallel in the past. It has brought a sales increase of 194% for the past six months over the same period of a year ago—the greatest gain in all Firestone history.

The Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord is the mighty achievement which has enabled Firestone to break the tremendous record of past Firestone success.

The tire buying public has been aroused to the results in economical mileage of the Firestone process of double gum-dipping. The buying trend toward Firestone shows how it has advanced the public's standard of tire value.

Ask owners about Firestone performance on their cars. Note the big taxicab fleets Firestone-equipped. Watch the new cars you see—just from the factories: Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords are seen everywhere in fast increasing numbers.

Get the maximum extra mileage that only the Firestone name assures you. Only by insisting on this name can you be sure of getting the genuine gum-dipped construction.
