Just at this time we are having some weather that is anything but pleasant. Many of our farmers are not done planting corn and are not sorry of it, as the weather has turned out as it has.

Shades o' sugar cane! What a petites with enough "in between" time we do have supplying husky young appetites with enough "in between" bites. Now as a case I don't believe in feeding children between meals but when you have a crop of lively jumpin' jacks around the place like we have you've just got to do something to keep 'em goin'. We find one way to appease them until meal time is to give them several little ginger snaps or vanilla wafers. These are not heavy and yet they're tasty and nice to nibble while playing. Of course we don't buy 'em at the stores! We make 'em ourselves and they taste every mite as good (if not better) than those bought at the stores. Here's the recipe for vanilla wafers: Cream one cupful of butter with two cupfuls of confectioned sugar, add three well-beaten eggs, and vanilla extract, to suit the taste. Stir in just enough self-rising flour to make a soft dough that will roll. Roll very thin, cut into rounds, and bake about fifteen minutes in a quick oven.
Snappy Ginger Snaps.
 You can bet your bottom dollar the boys are crazy about these when they are made like this: Rub one-half cup butter together with one-half cup fat, add one cup brown sugar, a cup of molasses and a well beaten egg. Sift a teaspoonful of ginger, one of cloves and one of cinnamon together with enough self-rising flour to make a stiff dough and add this to the first mixture. Add additional flour or hot water until the dough gets to the right consistency for rolling out real thin place in buttered tins. Let this stand ten minutes and then bake in a moderate oven.

LIFE HISTORIES OF PRESIDENTS WILSON AND HARDING ARE MADE AVAILABLE

By special arrangement with the publishers and in an effort to be of service to its readers The Cherokee Scout is offering, at about one-third the publishers prices, the authentic lives of the late Presidents Woodrow Wilson and Warren G. Harding in connection with renewals and new subscriptions to The Scout.

"THE LIFE OF WOODROW WILSON," by Josephus Daniels, is just off the press. It is a volume of 381 pages, of large type, contains many pictures and illustrations, and is considered absolutely reliable and authentic. Mr. Daniels was a close friend of Mr. Wilson before the latter became President of the United States, and this intimacy as well as his close association with him as Secretary of the Navy, from 1913 to 1921, gives Mr. Daniels an understanding as perhaps few other men had. His book should be especially attractive to North Carolinians because he is a North Carolinian.

"THE LIFE OF WARREN G. HARDING," by Willis Fletcher Johnson, was published in 1923, and is a graphic history from the simple life of the farm to the glamor and power of the White House. Mr. Johnson is Professor of History of American Foreign Relations, New York University, and author of "The Life of Sherman," "America and the Great War for Humanity and Freedom," etc., etc. This is a large volume of nearly 300 pages, printed in large, clear type, with many beautiful illustrations, and contains an authentic record of the early life and struggles of the 29th President of the United States.

These books are selling at book stores for $2.50 each. They may be had for $1.00 each with yearly subscriptions to The Cherokee Scout, either new or renewal, or for $1.10 with each six months subscription to The Scout, either new or renewal. These are standard works. You will want them for yourselves and children. DO NOT DELAY! Samples of the books may be seen at this office.
