PARKS PROPOSED FOR SMOKIES AND LINEVILLE SECTION

Abernathy Warns That Virginia Can't Have Park Unless State Gets One

Washington, Dec. 17.—The mountain members from North Carolina in the house undertook today to put the state on the map, so far as the securing of a national park in the Appalachian range is concerned. Representative Weaver introduced a bill creating a park in the Great Smokies separating the state from Tennessee and Representatives Doughton and Buiwink each introduced practically the same bill for park embracing the area of Lineville gorge and Grandfather Mountain.

It was emphasized that these separate bills were introduced for the sole purpose of presenting to Congress and the country what their authors believe to be eminently desirable locations for national parks in North Carolina and Tennessee. It was also emphasized that these bills, asking for parks in widely separated localities, do not indicate a conflict of opinion among the promoters of a national park in North Carolina. It was further emphasized that the North Carolina park promoters, in their effort to get on the map, are not opposing the proposed Shenandoah national park in Virginia.

Mr. Weaver said he had a conference with Representative Temple, author of the bill to create the Shenandoah national park, and that Mr. Temple is hospitable to the proposal to link the North Carolina park proposition with his Virginia plan.

Representative Abernathy who is a member of the house committee on public lands, thinks Secretary Work will favor the proposal to amend Mr. Temple's bill, so as to include with a Virginia park, a park in North Carolina, creating both at the same time. Mr. Abernathy said he had a conference with Secretary Slomp, and told him frankly that Virginia could not secure a park from Congress unless North Carolina got one at the same time. Mr. Slomp, it is understood, is one of the chief promoters of the Virginia park enterprise, and he agreed that both states should co-operate, so that each may get a park. Mr. Abernathy said he made Mr. Slomp understand that it was either that or nothing. Other North Carolina park promoters are telling the Virginia park promoters the same thing, that there will be no park in the Old Dominion if there is none in the Old North State.

Murphy Band Organizes

Last Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, organization of the Murphy Brass Band was perfected, the following officers being elected to serve the remainder of the present year, and for the year 1925:

W. McIver, president; Fred Dickey, vice president; F. S. Hill, secretary and treasurer; H. Engleman, business manager; J. W. Davidson, assistant business manager.

The following committees were appointed:

Welfare Committee: Lakes Martin, S. S. Christopher; Finance Committee: Fred Dickey, A. W. McIver, J. W. Davidson, Lakes Martin, H. Engleman and S. S. Christopher.

The band has been fortunate in securing the services of a competent instructor, Mr. H. Engleman, who is well known to the people of our town. He has agreed to assume this position, at a very nominal salary, and it is felt that with a little help from the business merchants of our town, this organization can be made a permanent success.

The finance committee will solicit subscriptions for the organization about the first of the year. The money thus raised will be used to pay the expenses of the band.

WELFARE IN CHEROKEE COUNTY

BEGETTING

"The matter of welfare work in Cherokee County has been delayed for some time, but we feel that it is now time to enter the field. The weather is extremely cold and we feel that the people here need some help. Furthermore, some of the work, is now being done in Wake County, made by several months before. University work here," with the State Leonard, director period h County Organization. What Board of Charities. What fare, in reply to the state Cherokee Scout appears. M work may be expected to do menced in this county. cent grant of three million dollars from the Rockefeller Foundation. Contle ter says: "We want to go to Cherokee as a hazard be relieved of the County, and pre education and the worker try. W this we have made make d tional or edu out the demonstration. In addition to Cher. Chatham and Orange Cou to share in the proceeds of Spellman Rockefeller state for demonstra work. A similar grant the Department of P of the State University, be used in special invest in gathering, compiling ing data about welfare of the state as a whole.

Under the arrangement State Board of Public W trained worker will be of the four counties mentioned. The work will be begun in County in the spring, as state letter, extracts from which ed above. A welfare work be selected from the county, ble, and if not, one will be se by the Public Welfare Depart which department will pay the of the worker and it is expected the county will pay the travel expenses.

This work is being done as a demonstration to show the value of having such an organization in the county. Many other counties in the state now employ a welfare agent. As a result of these demonstrations, it is hoped more counties will employ such workers. Cherokee should feel in that she has been single such demonstration work.

B. & L. Association Will Open New Series In January

The third series for the stock in the Murphy Building Loan Association will open in January, 1925, and continue through the month. The entire community should be more or less familiar with the workings and objects of the association and since it is an organization that hastens materially the development of the community citizen in town should be interested in its forthcoming stock sale.

Demands for loans are increasing. An increase in the outstanding stock will increase the loans and hasten the building of dwelling and business houses. The association also offers a good way of saving to the investor, offering a safe and good returns on the investment.
