

Advocates Better Homes As Best Curb For Social Unrest

"One of the greatest sources of social discontent is that of improper and unsanitary housing which occurs in our large cities," is the contention of Edward D. Duffield, president of the Prudential Insurance Company, which organization during 1924 relieved the housing shortage by making loans on dwellings and apartments covering property accommodating 25,878 families. Above are three homes made possible through this policy.

"We are trying our best to meet this situation," he has said. "We are trying to make it easier, year by year, for the man who wants to build a home to do so. We are going to try and see whether we can develop a system under which we can make loans during the process of construction with safety. We are going to try to make it easy for the honest upright American citizen who wants some help in order to build a home. We are going to make it just as easy for that man as we can do, having due regard to the fact that we are the trustees of other people's money."

"It seems to me we should give consideration to the fact that there are instrumentalities and agencies engaged in endeavoring to wipe out the slums that now disgrace the great cities of this country and substitute therefor decent housing facilities. I say that the Prudential ought to get back of every such movement. And I say that one of the missions of this company of ours is to make America a better America, and you can not do anything, in my opinion, that will more surely aid in this direction than to give people decent places in which to live."

Need a Blood Medicine?

J.F. WOODY

Gastonia, N.C.—"I think Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the finest blood medicine that can be found anywhere and no word of mine can sufficiently praise it. My brother-in-law recommended it to me when I was in very poor health. My blood was poisoned with malaria, had a bad cough and my bronchial tubes were choked up so that I could scarcely breathe and could not raise. My bowels were constipated so that I never felt well. Just drugged myself about, but the Golden Medical Discovery drove out my system all the impurities, stimulated, cleaned and enriched the blood, so that I felt life was worth living. I can recommend it to anyone who feels rundown and miserable."—J. F. Woody, 205 S. King St.

Ask for Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery in tablets or liquid, or send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg.

WHAT AND HOW OF TUBERCULOSIS

Two booklets that tell what every one ought to know

Sanatorium. —Two booklets distributed free of charge by the extension Department of the North Carolina Sanatorium contain a working knowledge of tuberculosis for every person in North Carolina.

"What You Should Know About Tuberculosis," tells: Why people are afraid of tuberculosis, what it is and when people take it. How you and your family may keep from getting it. How you can find it out soon enough to cure it if you catch the disease. Answers: "If I have contracted the disease can I get well and how?" Tells how to keep from spreading the disease to other members of your family, and how you must live after you are apparently well again in order to remain well. What work you may do and how soon you may return to work after the disease has been thoroughly arrested. It closes with an important appendix on how to prevent tuberculosis in your community.

A special bulletin, "Tuberculosis, Its Symptoms, Cure and Prevention," tells what those who have it and those who live with it should do about "tuberculosis" in a few short, simple directions.

A 100 PERCENT FORD TOWN

Atlanta, Ga.—Turn the spotlight on North Salem, Ohio.

That busy little community where thrift goes hand in hand with progress, has an unusual claim to distinction.

It is a 100 per cent Ford town!

Some time back a thrifty old resident set a good example for the village by purchasing a Ford. The rest of the folks, as soon as they could afford a car, followed suit.

Today every property owner in the place owns at least one Ford. If you don't believe it here are the figures!

The village has a population of 66, boasts 19 dwellings and the population of 66 Ford is attested by the fact that thirty Ford units cars, trucks and Fordson tractors are in use there.

North Salem is located in Guernsey County, Ohio, on the Cleveland and Marietta Highway and if you are motoring in that neighborhood just drop in and investigate for yourself. You'll be welcome especially so if you're driving a Ford.

pay as little as $2.50 per week for painting your house!

A WORLD of painting has been put off because the property owner did not have the ready money to finance the job and then when the money was available it was found that the unpainted wood had rotted and the unprotected metal had rusted, so that it was necessary to hire a carpenter and a tinner before the work could be done at all.

Now you can avoid the heavy expense of delaying painting too long. Have the painting job done at once and pay for it on convenient terms later. That is possible because of a new and modern time payment plan which Foy is first to introduce into the paint business.

The plan covers both the cost of the paint and the labor of applying it. You get the very best paint that it is possible to make, and the painting can be done by any painter you select.

The long standing reputation of the Foy Paint Company for good products and square dealing is behind this offer.

C. L. TRUETT, 95 YEARS OLD, DIES IN TEXAS

thankful for them. Yes, and his children are forever thankful for such a father.

"But Grandpa Truett had a sense of duty that went beyond the circle of his home. He was a patriot. When the war came on between the States, though he was needed at home with his family, the need of his native land was greater and he answered the call and gave to the Confederacy of the South three and one-half years of heroic and stainless service. A comrade in the struggle, Mr. John Stewart, a prominent citizen of Texas, in a letter pays a fine tribute to the soldier life of Grandpa Truett. In it he speaks of himself as a wild, rugged boy, but that Charles L. Truett was his ideal Christian and soldier. That he watched him closely amid the most trying scenes that tested the souls of men, yet he never knew Charles L. Truett to do or say any unmanly thing. That such conduct at such a time mightily influenced him to turn from his wicked ways and to find his highest joy in the service of the same Savior. Then in bidding Grandpa good-bye, Mr. Stewart refers to some of their trying experiences on the historic Potomac, of how they struggled through the weary years and then parted. And then feelingly prays that they shall meet again on a river not cursed with the strife of man but on a river whose stream shall make glad the City of God.

"This Christian character that so influenced a wayward soldier in the midst of bloody war to turn from his wicked ways and serve the Lord, continued to shine for more than half a century in the church. The church was his joy and crown. To it he gave his best. How regular in attendance he was, and who ever knew him to be late! Not until last June, and then because of the infirmity of his body, did he cease to come and fill his accustomed place. Sitting here, his noble, old gray head was a crown of glory in the worship of the Lord. Few we shall miss him, but his memory will be a benediction to his church and community until we shall see him again.

"Our town will miss him, for he was greatly beloved and honored by all our people. A prominent citizen, not a member of this church, said to the pastor: 'Grandpa Truett is one of the best men I ever knew, and his gifted son will never preach a greater sermon than the life of his father.' But the long life, stretching across almost a century of time, has come to the end of its days. 'Like a shock of grain cometh in its season.' The harvest was ready, and on Friday morning the Angel-reapers came and garnered it home, and now there is rejoicing in heaven. 'For precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints.'

"May the God of all comfort bless and keep the members of the family until the day dawns and the shadows flee away."

New Railroad Man Started at the Top

The business of conducting a great transportation system is not one which can be learned overnight or mastered by men and women who have not had practical experience. There are no "soft berths" in this organization, no useless jobs and no "appointments from the outside".

Every important position—in every department—is held by a man or woman who has been trained to do his or her particular job. Every important position of this and other railroads is held by someone who has risen from the ranks.

Such care in training makes for both safety and efficiency in railroad operations and has made American railroads the most satisfactory transportation systems in all this world.
