

HOOVER PLAYS LOCAL COURSE FOR SCORE 45

(Continued from page one.) Second round, Steele and McNeil, 110. The score by greens for each player is as follows: First Round Hoover, 6-6-6-6-6-6-1, total 50. Davidson, 6-6-5-7-7-5-6-9, total 57. Steele, 7-7-5-6-4-6-6-4, total 53. McNeil, 5-5-6-4-8-7-6-6-6, total 53. Second Round Hoover, 5-4-6-6-5-5-5-4-5, total 45. Davidson, 6-6-5-6-7-6-5-5-5, total 51. Steele, 5-6-6-5-6-6-6-5-5, total 50. McNeil, 6-5-6-7-7-8-5-7-6, total 60.

The first round was the most interesting. The foursome was full of pep, while pep was rather lagging on the second trip. A brief summary of the green and tee plays follows:

Hoover—Off one in 2, caused by missing one which rolled off down the hill. Off two, beautiful drive but too much to the right. Off three with a peach of a drive, in fact so "peachy" it went clear past the green into the cane brake thickset beyond the corner of the course, and either fell into the river or hid itself in the cane brake. This was a 310 yard drive to the green, but the ball took in fully thirty yards more. Off four, he got too low and the Maxpar coursed almost straight up, and the same thing happened off the fifth tee. Off tee six and seven Hoover got in line drives that would do credit to a sharpshooter. Off eight, low and short on distance. Off nine, the most difficult tee on the course, his tactics carried the ball high in the air and it landed about two-thirds of the distance. Hoover's first round acquainted him with the changes of the course, and the second round brought his score five points lower.

Davidson—Off tee one with a good drive. Off two, would have been a peach of a drive had it not been too low and contacted with the slight elevation in the fairway immediately in front. Off three with a bouncing grounder, in fact, Davidson is noted for his ground drives. Someone said he was afraid to get the ball up in the air, lest it take wings and fly away. Off four, he took an iron drive that put him over half way in direct line with the green. Off five, he topped the ball and rolled short, and the same thing happened on the sixth tee. Off the seventh, he kept the ball sufficiently high off the ground to land close behind Hoover. Off the eighth, he fell short. Off the ninth, the bugbear of the whole course for all golfers and near golfers, he went out of bounds to the left for three consecutive times, and on the fourth fell short.

Steele—Off the first tee, the preacher put one into the bank near the spring, within twenty feet of the caddy, and so far as any knows it still lies where it fell. It made a complete disappearance, right out in the open, too. Another ball was put down, and lifted to the left over the fence and out of bounds. Off two, the ball soared high and fell short. Off three out of bounds again. Off four with a sizzling grounder. Off five with a high drive over the river—completely over—and No. 2 was long and in direct line. It fell just a few feet behind Hoover's long drive. Off six, tipped ball on top and rolled for a short distance. Off seven and eight with beauties. However, off No. nine, a slice to the right put him over the hill, and the climb was steep and wearisome.

McNeil—Off one with the advantage over the others. Off two, he went to the left and took a right slice off No. three. Off four was a peach of a liner, and his playing looked like a second Bobby Jones. Off five, he topped the ball and it rolled down the hill, and this evidently upset him for his field work went to pieces and his score began to mount. Off seven, he went into the fence corner for out of bounds, but Madame Luck made her bow, and the ball rolled on through and out into the open. Off six, was to the right and near the fence corner. Off eight, he dug up the earth and fell short. Off nine, out of bounds twice, and the third fell short

SOU. FREIGHTS TO CAMP HERE OVER NIGHTS

Mayor Harry P. Cooper received the following telegram Thursday from the Superintendent of the Asheville Division of the Southern Railway:

"Commencing Monday local freights will be camped at Murphy. (Signed) W. F. COOPER."

Mr. Cooper has been working on this proposition with the Southern officials for the past several months, and he stated that he felt sure this action on the part of the Southern officials was taken because of the friendly attitude the people of Murphy had taken in discontinuing one passenger train several months ago.

"This means that all local freights will come on through to Murphy instead of stopping over the night at Andrews," Mayor Cooper stated. "And it is my opinion," he continued, "that by the 15th of the month, certainly not later than the 30th, the present passenger schedule of the Southern will be changed by running the early morning train out of Murphy about 5 o'clock, reaching Asheville in time to make connections with all trains east and north. I also believe that the train which now comes in the early afternoon, will be placed back and arrive at Murphy around 3:30 at night. This change will allow people of Murphy and this section to go to Asheville and have several hours in which to transact business and do shopping and return the same day."

OLD TALC MINE AT KINSEY HAS BEEN RE-OPENED

Mr. Bailey has shipped five carloads to northern and eastern markets, but finds that it will be more easily marketed by being pulverized or ground. This he is now preparing to do. He has a crew of men at work installing a large pulverizer made by the Bethlehem Steel Company, which has a capacity of grinding 1,200 pounds of talc per hour to a 325 mesh screen, or a screen that is so fine it has 325 holes to the square inch.

In addition to grinding and pulverizing talc for the market, machinery is also being installed for cutting pencils. These machines will have a capacity of 350 gross of talc pencils per day. The pencils are used by structural iron workers and schools, and are in great demand.

Besides the five carloads shipped, Mr. Bailey has, already mined and in bins, 13 carloads more. Mining operations have been temporarily discontinued until the pulverizer and pencil cutting machines can be erected.

The talc taken from the new shaft, all shows up under tests to be a high grade article, clear, white and transparent. It is used by such manufacturers as Colgate & Company in the manufacture of face and talcum powders.
