Dangerous Business

Our stomach and digestive systems are lined with membrane which is delicate, sensitive and easily injured. It is dangerous business, then, to use medicines containing harsh drugs, salts or minerals, when we are constipated. In addition to the possibility of injuring the linings of our digestive system, these medicines give only temporary relief and may prove habit forming. To relieve constipation, take Herbine, the cathartic that is made from herbs, and acts in the way nature intended. You can get Herbine at Parker's Drug Store, Murphy, N. C.

MASTIFF MAKES LION TURN TAIL

Survives Bloody Battle With King of Beasts.

New York.—The mastiff, probably the oldest of the British breeds of dogs, has remained unchanged in form, size and colors for hundreds of years. And always he has been known for his courage.

It is written that the Romans found the mastiff in Britain and, noting its great strength, took it to Rome to fight against other great and captive beasts," says Freeman Lloyd in Home and Field.

"Soon after Britain was discovered, the 'pugnaces,' or fighting dogs of Epirus, were pitted against those of the British, and, according to Gratius, completely beaten.

"As to the bravery of the English mastiff, one writer relates an instance of a contest between three mastiffs and a lion in the presence of James I. This affair took place in the Tower of London, which at that time had its collection of wild beasts. "One of the dogs, being put into the den, was soon disabled by the lion, which took him by the head and neck and dragged him about. Another dog was then let loose and was served in the same manner. But the third, being put in, immediately seized the lion by the lip and held him for a considerable time, until being badly torn by his opponent's claws, the dog was obliged to quit his hold.

"The lion, greatly exhausted, refused to renew the engagement and, taking a leap over the dogs, fled into the interior part of his den. Two of the dogs soon died of their wounds. The last survived and was taken care of by the king's son, who said: 'He that has fought with the king of the beasts should never after fight an inferior creature.'"

The mastiff has been bred by the English for massiveness and power. Mr. Lloyd points out in his Home and Field article, and with those attributes has come great courage.

Paving Machine Reveals Age of Western Glaciers

Iowa City, Iowa.—Paving machinery enabled George F. Kay, dean of the department of geology, University of Iowa, a nationally known scholar, to establish the definite length in years of the great ice sheets which once covered the Middle West.

The Pleistocene, or glacial period, had a minimum duration of 700,000 years, said Dean Kay in telling a history which has long defied science.

The machinery of grading crews laid bare many cross sections of territory in which Dean Kay found his mass of evidence.

Mother Pinch Hits for Sick Daughter in Class

Boston.—Mrs. James T. Gordon of Yonkers, N. Y., appeared recently in the novel role of "pupil pinch hitter." When her daughter, Margaret, became ill and could not attend classes at Boston university's school of education Mrs. Gordon sat in at all classes. Each night the mother visited the hospital and repeated the lectures she had heard during the day. Thus Miss Gordon lost no credits.

Tuesday of this week to Asheville to see her daughter, Winifred, who is ill in the hospital.

Messrs. D. H. Tillitt and L. B. Nichols were business visitors in Murphy on Monday of this week.

Mr. John Scronce, Jr., a former resident of Andrews but who is now stationed in Asheville was back on Tuesday of this week visiting old friends.

Sheriff J. Frank Bristol and son, Edwin, were visitors in Andrews on Tuesday of this week.

Church Made Famous by Swearing Parrot Saved

Paris.—The Church of the Visitation, in Nevers, made famous by a swearing parrot, has just been saved from demolition by the efforts of literary and historical societies.

Ver-Verte, the parrot, was immortalized in verse by Jean Baptiste Gresset, Eighteenth century poet and dramatist. He made the bird the central theme about the Visitandines convent, which was contiguous to the Church of the Visitation. He related how Ver-Verte was the pampered pet of this convent, frequently by Ste. Jeanne de Chantal, and became well known for his pious talk.

Its fame soon reached the ears of the Visitandines of Nantes. They asked if they might borrow the parrot. Their request was granted and the parrot was sent to them. But en route it picked up more current phrases, and by the time it reached Nantes had acquired the habit of swearing. The Nantes nuns were shocked and sent back the bird.

Upon its return Ver-Verte was punished by being placed in a dark room and given very little to eat. As a result it mended its ways and again came into favor; but it then ate so much that it died of indigestion.

Although Gresset made Ver-Verte immortal by the poem of the same name, French critics frequently remark that it was really the parrot that saved his name for posterity.
