Mr. Ivie spent two days and one night in the storm section helping to care for the dead and injured.

PRIZES TOTALING $80 TO BE GIVEN CANNERY YIELDS

For the largest yield per acreage each of tomatoes and beans under Murphy cannery contracts, $40 will be given in prizes, it was announced this week.

The $40, it was pointed out, would be over and above the revenue obtained from the sale of the produce of the acreage at the Mountain Valley Associated Cooperative Cannery.

The largest yields will be determined from records kept at the cannery and the biggest acre of tomatoes will bring $40 to its owner and the best acre of beans will do likewise.

Thirty dollars in prizes will be given by the cannery officials, $30 by the Cherokee County fair association and $20 in trade by W. M. Fain, Murphy wholesale merchant, a cannery director and a fair official.

These prizes are being offered in order to stimulate more interest among the contractors for the Murphy cannery.

A Gurnsey cow owned by John F. Maley, of East Putney, Vt., gave birth to quadruplets. Three were females and the other a male.

NEWS PICK-UPS

Henn theater manager Jim McCombs, in an ambitious mood last week, decided to do a little extra advertising for his film, "If You Could Only Cook". So up and down the street he went painting it on the sidewalk.

And doesn't know until yet that he once picked the front door of the Murphy Cafe for his spell.

One of our prominent men the other day said it must be the weather, but for some reason he couldn't even sleep in church anymore. We don't like to give this fellow away but both his names are synonymous with a poet's conception of a plain old cow pasture, the first one rhymes with "Jail" and he works for his father-in-law in his father-in-law's department store. So there.

Suggested slogan for a newspaper: "Covers Dixie Like the Jew (covers New York)."

Our dream almost came true the other day. For a long time we have cherished the thought of what would happen if a fire alarm was turned in at noon on Monday when they give the fire whistle its weekly work-out. An alarm came in Monday at 11:47. Darn the luck.

Fred Beatty the other day said he guessed in the olden days women must have laid eggs. Else there wouldn't be so confounded many of 'em.

Don Gentry's two-months-old boy set the house on fire the other day. He was smoking a cigar in bed and when his mother refused to hand him an ash tray, he just knocked the ashes off in the covers of the crib. It sounds kind of goofy to us, but Don said so himself. Wonder if he cried when they wouldn't give him a bottle of beer to put it out with?

We still laugh out loud every time we think of that bunch of soaks that ran into a telephone pole one night. They swore up and down it was right in the middle of the highway. Anyhow a couple of months later one of them decided to find out about it. He went back to the scene of the wreck and asked a bystander if he knew where a pole was that a bunch of boys had knocked down several months ago.

"Shore", said the old man furiously. "And if I ever ketch 'em I'll knock their dad-blamed cars off. It was in my backyard!"

And, of course, that brings to mind the boy who was so unfortunate as to drop off to sleep in the cafe. His buddies piled about 40 beer bottles around the table and then called Fred Johnson. That was over a year ago and the poor devil hasn't been able to act sober yet.

MR. BARRETT, 78, OF THIS COUNTY, BURIED TUESDAY

Funeral services for Mr. Kelsey Barrett, 78, of Cherokee county, were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Hangingdog Baptist church with the Rev. Thomas Truett officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery. W. D. Townson was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Mr. Barrett had been ill several months and died Monday morning at 2 o'clock of a general breakdown.

He was born in Buncombe county, but moved to this section about 40 years ago where he became a member of the Hangingdog church. He was one of the leading church workers and citizens in his community and was a member of the Odd Fellows and K of P lodges.

Surviving are his wife; four sons, John, of Murphy, Willie, of Rockford, Tenn., George, of Akron, Ohio, and Henry, of Alcoa, Tenn.; two daughters, Mrs. Leila Fox and Mrs. Sue Parker, both of Weaverville; three sisters, Mrs. Ben Lovingood, of Grandview, Mrs. Luther Dockery, of Chattanooga, and Mrs. Vernie McLamb, of Walthamville, Ga., and two brothers, Henry and Prentis, both of Weaverville.

To Acquire Forests In Cherokee County

Immediate steps for acquiring the land for inclusion in Southern national forests, approved for purchase at a meeting of the National Forest Reservation Commission in Washington, on April 2, will be taken by the Southern Region of the U. S. Forest Service, according to an announcement by Joseph C. Kircher, Regional

The Red Cross is an unquestionable organization and has done a great deal for Cherokee county. They have given us yearly contributions of yeast for pellaagra and the like, and have given Cherokee county more than the citizens have put into it.

"During the Red Cross drive last winter there were only 26 members and half the money raise remained at home."

The Andrews chapter of the American Red Cross, one of the few community units in the organization, raised $200 and sent two car loads of produce to the Gainesville area.

Meanwhile Gainesville and other storm-stricken towns had buried their hundreds of dead and are now looking to rebuilding. Federal and state help have been offered in all cases.

The following wire was recently received by Mr. Fain: "Reports coming in from chapters in N. Carolina indicate great interest of people in tornado sufferers. Latest estimate of necessary relief to meet basic needs of those people who have no resources is considerable in excess of one million dollars. New reports from devastated cities, towns and counties testify to shocking loss and widespread need. In Tupelo alone 60 city blocks of house demolished, more than 700 homes destroyed with many more badly damaged."

"In Gainesville 750 homes demolished. Urge you to continue vigorous solicitation."

When an officer told J. J. Halford of Yazoo City, Miss., how much his taxes were, he collapsed. Physicians diagnosed the cause as heart attack and said he had little chance to recover.

J. W. Linder, proprietor of a pool hall in Royal, Neb., won a bet he could put a billiard ball in his mouth, but it took him an agonizing 15 minutes to remove the ball.
