N. C. ASSEMBLY IS FACING FOUR MAJOR ISSUES

Harry P. Cooper, Cherokee County Representative, In Attendance

Liquor, labor, money and socal security loomed as the principal issues of North Carolina's legislature which convened in Raleigh for its regular session Wednesday.

Harry P. Cooper, representative from Cherokee County, left Monday morning to attend the session.

Little official business will be conducted, however, until after the in-auguration Thursday of Gov.-Elect Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby.

With the speaker of the house and the president pro-tem of the senate named during the special session of the legislature, called in December by Governor Ehringhaus to pass an unemployment compensation act, or-ganization of the two bodies will be expedited party leaders said.

Lieut. Gov.-Elect W. P. Horton who will preside over the senate, said he hoped to name his committees by Friday and Speaker of the House R. Cherry of Gaston is expected to do likewise. A Hall Johnston is president pro-tem of the senate.

Bitter Fights Expected In contrast to the even tenor of the special session, which adopted an administration - prepared compensation act without a dissenting vote, bitter fights are expect to develop during the regular session, party leaders

The United Dry Forces and representatives of the 17 "wet" counties have expressed exactly opposite views on the sale of spirits. The liquor study commission itself was divided in its recommendations. The majority favored county option, with the state getting 20 per cent of the profits, and the minority favored a state-wide referendum.

The advisory budget commission report will request "record appropri-ations", Frank Dunlap, assistant director of the budget has announced. The Democratic party, which has a large majority in both houses is pledged to repeal the sales tax on "all necessities of life".

Amendments Adopted

Other money problems include: Increase of income tax rates, clas-Increase of income tax rates, classification of property for taxation and tax exemptions up to $1,000 on homesteads—three "permissiva" amendments adopted at the last general election; payment of road claims to counties, and special allotments to match federal social security funds.

The state department of labor and the North Carolina state legislative council both have announced they intended to prepare bills which would establish minimum wages and maxi-establish minimum wages and maximum work-hours in industry and provide for the ratification of the federal child labor amendment.

Although no group has announced itself as opposed to either measure, the child labor amendment was defeated in the 1935 legislature.

Among the social security proposals to be considered are participation in old age pension, dependent children old age pension, depender aid and blind relief plans.

Paving Job To be Resumed When Working Conditions Are Better

ROAD IN BAD SHAPE

First Shovel Put to Work On Dam; TVA Policemen Arrive Here

The laying off of bout 45 men temporarily due to bad weather was among a list of important developments taking place here this week in connection with the building of the Hiwassee dam.

The men, most of whom are em-ployed by the maintenance and construction division of the TVA paving the principal access road from Turtletown to the dam site will be put back to work as soon as the weather permits. P. M. Darby, personnel agent of the TVA here, said the lay off would "last at least, two weeks". Heavy rains during the past sever-al weeks have made working conditions bad and slowed up work on the project.

The rainfall has also put the road from Murphy into the dam site by the way of Unaka in an almost impassable condition, and about 50 high-way employees under Grover Mauney were expected to begin improving the road this week.

The first shoved to be used on actual construction of the dam was put into use last Tuesday, according to Lex G. Phifer, construction superinintendent.

Four of 15 policemen to be employed by the TVA at the dam site arrived here this week to take up their duties which will consist of pa rolling work and developments at the dam site.

Those arriving were.
