Rebel Army Advances 18 Miles In 3 Days

HENDAYE, July 7.—Nationalist forces Tuesday captured the important seaport city of Burriana, 18 miles north of Sagunto and center of the Spanish orange growing region, in the fourth day of an offensive which broke the loyalist "iron ring", south of Teruel.

After mopping up the port and the town, the nationalists continued down the coastal road to the walled town of Jules, 12 miles to the south. They claimed to have freed Burriana from loyalist artillery fire.

In the last three days the nationalists have advanced 18 miles through wild mountain country in the sector dominated by La Peubla DeValverde, a town south of Sagunto and to the right of the road to Sagunto, according to dispatches from Zaragoza.
