MALARIA FOUND CLOSE TO TOWNS IN TWO COUNTIES

TVA Suggests WPA Fund to End Danger:—5 Cases Reported

For the first time in the history of this section, malaria is here. Two cases were reported to Health Officer Whichard from the Hiwassee Dam; three in Graham county, near the Nantahala dam.

According to Dr. Whichard, a yearly recurrence, and possible spread of the disease can only be banished by thorough spraying of all standing water, riddance of all weeds near water, and filling in the thousand of holes and depressions which now trap water when back-ups from the dam cause streams to overflow their banks.

The Health Officer reported the outbreak of malaria to the TVA authorities some six weeks ago, when the first cases were found, at Hiwassee dam. He says Engineers and sprayers were sent. He said, however, that this was not enough for future protection.

The TVA has advised that a WPA appropriation be sought to eliminate the menace. Even should a WPA fund be gotten, however, Dr. Whichard said, expert professional direction would be necessary to insure the desired result. All the territory adjacent to streams would have to be minutely examined to locate holes and depressions that would have to be filled in; and experts would be needed to see that the work was properly done.

As a result of his malaria report, Dr. Whichard said, the level of waters in Cherokee County had been lowered. He added that the State is aiding the local office in working for mosquito control; but stated that this work was necessarily limited.

Dr. Whichard mentioned specific places which he described as "ideal breeding places for mosquitoes", but said his office had neither the funds nor the man-power to eliminate them. He suggested that the town and county combine in an urgent plea to the TVA for aid, promising that his office would do "everything in its power to back them up".

Local Dealer Attends Premiere Showing Of New Willys Automobiles

Back Monday from Charlotte, where he attended a meeting of Willys distributors and dealers at which the new 1941 Willys was shown, Mr. Franklin of Murphy said that the new car is by far the finest ever produced by the Willys-Overland Company.

"Motorists of Murphy and vicinity are in for a surprise when they see this new car in our showrooms next month," said Mr. Franklin.

"It is a completely new car, newly designed and newly engineered from bumper to bumper and from frame to turret top. It will really give the American family proud motoring at lowest cost.

"It has looks, style, comfort, performance and economy such as was never seen before in a low priced car, and this new Willys product will sell at the lowest price of any full-size car made."

Present at the meeting, also, as guest speaker, Mr. Franklin reported, was Mr. Balwin of Willys-Overland Motors Inc., Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Franklin said that the new 1941 Willys represents fully the conception of the ideal American family car as conceived by the Company's President, Mr. J. W. Frazer, when he came from the Chrysler Corporation to take charge of Willys-Overland two years ago. It is his belief that this new type car, offering style and roomy comfort, easy riding and remarkable economy, without excessive weight or wheelbase, will prove to be the car for which millions of Americans have been waiting.

Conservation Districts Operate in 32 Counties

One-third of North Carolina, or 32 counties lying between the middle Coastal Plain and the Blue Ridge Mountains, is now included in the 19 active soil conservation districts.

W. D. Lee, extension soil conservationist of State College, explained that each of these districts was organized as a voluntary cooperative move on the part of land-owners to control erosion and build up the soil. This is being accomplished through the use of good conservation practices.

During the first half of this year, activity in these districts has been varied as well as extensive. Much educational work was conducted to enable interested farmers to receive definite information on the district program. In all, 157 meetings were held with a total attendance of 5,906.

Fifteen soil conservation tours were conducted by county and home agents of the State College Extension Service to farms having complete programs in cooperation with the districts. At each stop, the operator of the farm led the group over his place, explaining each part of the program and how he established the various practices.

CCC assistance was given without cost to those farmers within work range of one of these camps. The labor was used in establishing practices which normally are beyond the resources of the average farmer.

Such work has included terrace outlet construction, building meadow strips or vegetated waterways, gully control measures, timber stand improvements, reforestation, and relocating fences. In the first half of 1940, farmers in the ten districts received 138,752 man-days of CCC labor.
