

Useful Bamboo

The bamboo tree is one of the most useful trees in the tropics. It grows as much as 16 inches in 24 hours, and attains a height of more than 100 feet.

The tree is hollow, but at each of the many joints the cavity is closed. Saw off one complete section of the thick stem and you have a perfect pail, or cooking vessel. Smaller sections form ready-made bottles.

Bamboo makes house-building simple. The stems are used as scaffolding, walls and roofs can be made from it, and split sections form the floors. Masts for ships and rods for fishermen are other uses. People of the East eat it, too.

WASHINGTON, D. C. JAPAN GETS AVIATION FUEL

The new iron and steel scrap embargo finally shut off one of Japan's key military supplies.

But through a loophole as big as a barn door, Japan had been able, despite this supposedly stringent embargo, to obtain all the U. S. gas it needs for the bombers that are raining death and destruction on helpless Chinese cities and villages. This loophole is the little-noticed provision that limits the embargo only to a certain super-grade of gas—87 octane and over.

This type of fuel is essential for modern aerial warfare. Without it planes are not able to attain the great speeds necessary in dog fights and raids such as take place night and day over Britain.

But Japan is not up against that kind of battling. Its bombers and fighter planes face no aerial opposition. They have the skies to themselves. They don't need super-gas. They can do just as well on lower octane fuel. Their job is no different than an ordinary transport plane's. They haul out a load of bombs, dump it and fly back.

The story is told in the following unpublished government figures. In the month after the imposition of the so-called embargo, Japan imported from the United States 137,026 barrels of lower grade gasoline, or more than 20 per cent of all such exports during that period.

SPY CENTER

The large Japanese fishing colony on Terminal Island in Los Angeles harbor is soon due for a clean-up by Uncle Sam.

This colony has long been under suspicion as a nerve center of foreign espionage on the West coast. More than one of the "fishing" vessels is radio-equipped, and intelligence officials have evidence that some of the colony's sea-going denizens double in brass as spies.

No action has been taken up to now chiefly because of state department qualms about kicking up an international ruckus. The suspects were kept under scrutiny but nothing was done to get rid of them.

But with Japan taking the bit in its teeth in Indo-China and showing signs of further adventures, the state department has withdrawn its red light. Under a plan worked out with California and Los Angeles officials, the fishing village will be dispersed.

U. S. FLYING FORTRESSES

"Flying Fortresses" of the U. S. army and powerful twin-engined PBV patrol bombers of the U. S. navy—for Britain—

The negotiations have been going on for several weeks simultaneously with conversations regarding the securing of air and naval bases on strategic British islands in the Pacific.

The British are urgently in need of long-range, great weight-carrying planes of the "Flying Fortress" and PBV type. Lack of ships of this kind is a vital weakness in British air power. They have no planes capable of operating east of Berlin, which makes it impossible to strike at some of the Nazis' key war production centers located in what were formerly Austria and Czechoslovakia.

A fleet of 25 "Flying Fortresses," which have a cruising radius of over 5,000 miles, would bring the war home to the Germans where it would hurt most. Also, the British could strike smashing blows at Italian industries—and Italy is the Achilles heel of the Axis.

The naval PBVs are needed in the crucial Mediterranean struggle. With a range of 4,000 miles, these mighty flying boats could destroy Italian submarines, transports and supply ships. Italy has to transport everything she needs in her African offensive across the Mediterranean, and the PBVs could cripple this jugular vein.

These planes also are needed to meet assault on Gibraltar, key to British control of the Mediterranean. They also would put Britain in a much stronger position to meet Spanish intervention.

The army has a total of 59 "Flying Fortresses" plus a number of others in production, which are coming from the factory at the rate of about seven a month.

The British would like to make an arrangement to obtain every other new ship. Army officials say this would not delay U. S. rearming, but would enable the manufacturer to expand his facilities and achieve a greater output.

THE BOYHOOD OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:40-52. GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man.—Luke 2:52.

One brief but revealing glimpse into the earthly life of our Lord is all we have from His birth to the time when he entered upon His public ministry at His baptism in the Jordan. How appropriate it is that he was permitted to live those years of His life behind the curtain of divine silence.

The incident in our lesson shows Jesus at the age of responsibility, and in His Father's house. This is preceded by one verse which reveals Him as the growing child, and is followed by another verse which tells of his advancement from boyhood into manhood. Luke, who is the only one who presents this story, thus fills out the picture of the divine-human personality of the One whom he purposes to reveal as the perfect and universal Saviour.

I. The Child Grows (v. 40).

Like every other child in the world (apart, of course, from any sin or blemish), Jesus grew during the first 12 years of His life on earth. One rightly regards that growth as the normal, happy development of every child, a time of physical development, of carefree play, of learning obedience.

Jesus came into the world to die as the Saviour of sinful men, but for these childhood years we are glad that He just grew, waxed strong in body as well as in spirit, developing mentally, and that in it all "the grace of God was upon him." May our children have a similar opportunity and privilege!

II. The Boy Meets Life's Responsibilities (vv. 41-51).

Soon enough came the day when as a "son of the law" Jesus reached the age of accountability and went with His parents to keep the feast of the Passover. He entered the temple, and there took over the responsibility for his own religious life, which until then had been borne by His parents. Such a day is of vital importance in the life of every boy and girl, and in the case of Jesus was of special significance.

Acting for Himself, He tarried in the temple. As a good learner, He asked and answered questions, at the same time amazing those who heard by His understanding.

To Him it was the natural and expected thing that He would be in His Father's house, going about the business of God. He recognized the special relationship between Himself and the Father—His very own Father—and He began to assume the responsibility of His divine mission on earth.

He was about to turn the corner from boyhood and start toward manhood, but there were yet 18 years that He was to show His perfect submission to the will of God by His obedience to His parents.

III. The Youth Goes On to Manhood (v. 52).

The curtain is drawn again, and the boy Jesus develops into the man; yes, the man who was to bear on Calvary's tree your sins and mine. What do we know about these years when a boy with the consciousness that He must be about His Father's business went forward to manhood under the loving and watchful eye of the mother who "kept all these sayings in her heart."

Jesus "advanced," the word being entirely different in meaning from the "grew" of verse 40. The child grows without any thought or purpose of doing so, but the boy pressing on to manhood has to beat his way forward, cutting a path through life to his goal.

The fact that Jesus did that should encourage every young man and woman who is doing the same in a difficult and hostile world, and cause them to seek the daily companionship and help of the Son of God and Son of Man who has passed that way before them.

The development here puts the mental first, then the physical. The latter is important, but must be under control of the former. Crowning them both is His growth in grace, fellowship with God and fellowship with men, the latter glorified and made useful by the former.

Here again we may learn of Him who, though the Son of God with power, was obedient to the limitations of the humanity He had taken, and yet advanced "in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man" (v. 52).

HOW good a swinger is Sammy Snead compared to the best of all time? Snead has yet to win a national crown and yet many, including Bobby Jones, pick the West Virginian as one of the top stylists since the first Scotchman socked a rock with a shepherd's crook and complained of the greens.

Snead may be the "dream swinger" to many, but he isn't to Jimmie Donaldson, an able stylist of his own and one of the top instructors of the game.

In rating Snead as highly as we have, Jimmie thinks your correspondent is a trifle curious in the cupola—as follows—

An Expert Disagrees

Dear Grant: I happened to see your article about Sammy Snead. How a man like you who has seen as much golf as you have can compare Sammy Snead's swing, which has a decided loop (which is preventing him from winning big tournaments), with a great swing like Harry Vardon's baffles me.

What do you mean about Hagen, Sarazen and J. H. Taylor being swingers? They certainly were not swingers, but decided hitters. And if you are writing on the subject of swingers, how can you possibly overlook Byron Nelson who, I personally think, is a much better swinger, and better grooved, than Snead has been last two years.

To the layman your article might appeal, but to someone like myself who knows a little about it, it is really funny.

Sincerely yours, Jimmie Donaldson

And in Rebuttal—

Dear Jimmie— I know of few golfers who swing a golf club better than you do—or few who know as much about the old game. But I can't agree with you about Sammy Snead. You say he has a loop in his swing? So did Bobby Jones. Do you know a better swinger? Yet only a few days ago Bobby Jones told me that in his opinion Snead had the best all around swing with every club that he had ever seen—and Bob played with Vardon as far back as 1920. Bobby Jones was referring to the physical makeup of Snead's swing, not to his mental attitude in a championship.

Snead gets amazing results with little show of effort, of extra effort. Snead's downfall has never been due to any fault in his swing—only to his inability to concentrate—only to his mental attitude, which as you know is 70 per cent of golf.

I played with Bobby Jones four days ago and he had a 65. I still got a thrill from the slow, smooth beauty of his swing. Bob still insists that Snead is the top. The difference is that Bobby could always concentrate and keep full control of his mental and nerve resources. Snead can't. Yet remember this—in his last four big tournaments, Snead has won three and reached the final hole against Nelson in the last P. G. A.

I have seen Snead hit many a golf ball, but I have yet to see any "decided loop."

Hagen and Nelson

Continuing our correspondence, I hate to disagree with an expert of your rank. But to my mind Walter Hagen is a better swinger than most. Hagen in his prime was one of the ideal swingers.

Sarazen, with his stocky build, is more of a hitter than a swinger. We agree here. Sarazen doesn't think Snead has any loop, but he is afraid Snead is getting a trifle flat in his back swing.

"The greatest fault in golf today," Sarazen says. As for swingers—how about Henry Picard? Winning temperament—no. But a great golfer and a great swinger. Snead has had a better three or four-year record than Mac Donald Smith. Did you ever see a finer swinger than Mac Smith? Yet Mac Smith through 25 years never won a national title.

Here was the great crime of all golf. Mac Smith with the golfing temperament of Walter Hagen or Byron Nelson would have won at least six championships. Imagine Sammy Snead with the mental attitude of a Hagen or a Nelson—or the tremendous concentration of a Bobby Jones—

Even as it is, I believe Sammy Snead will still astonish the world of golf. Watch him!

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!
