FARM ITEMS

QUESTION: Will a hen that quits laying and molts during the Spring and summer come back into production early next fall when egg prices go up?

ANSWER: Late molters are quick molters. Records show that the best layers are late molers and that the early molters take a long time to complete the job and lay at a slower rate when they do start back. When feed and water are kept before a flock, the birds that molt before September are usually not worth carrying over another year, should be replaced with pullets.

QUESTION: Can farmers make as much money raising sheep as they can raising cattle?

ANSWER: L. I. Case, extension animal husbandman of State College, says growers can make more money with sheep than almost any other farm enterprise for the money invested. Records show that it costs not more than $3 a year to keep a ewe, yet this animal will return a gross income of from $10 to $12 yearly.
