

TEACHERS BACK PROF. BUECK FOR NCEA DIRECTOR

Andrews Schools Open Campaign to Honor Murphy Educator

One time rumors of "bad feeling" between the Murphy and Andrews School systems were thoroughly spiked at a meeting of the Andrews unit of the North Carolina Education Association last Friday. Voting unanimously, the members nominated Hieronymus Bueck, Superintendent of the Murphy Unit to be a member of the State Board of Directors.

The nomination was offered by Superintendent I. B. Hudson, of the Andrews unit, and the members voted Mr. Bueck their solid active support. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Al G. Brown.

Prof. Hudson described Mr. Bueck as "one of the better known School executives of Western North Carolina, under whose ten years administration the Murphy schools have made notable progress."

Before coming to Murphy, Mr. Bueck was principal of the Cullowhee Public Schools, and director of teacher training for Western Carolina Teachers College. For eight years he was connected with the Selma schools, acting at one time or another as class room teacher, high school athletic coach and finally principal.

Superintendent Bueck is a graduate of the University of North Carolina of the class of 1921. Later he was awarded the M. A. degree at State College in Raleigh. He began his teaching career in the elementary grades in the Rockwell school in Rowan county and taught one year in Kingstree, S. C.

For a number of years Mr. Bueck has taught classes in the summer school at Western Carolina Teachers college. He is married, and has one child, H. C., age 3.

Six Times As Many Married Men Drink As Do Bachelors, N. C. Records Show

Married men drink six times as much as single ones, according to North Carolina records of some 400,000 men who have taken treatment for the liquor habit. These same figures show that drinking by married men has increased, by three times, during the past seven years.

The records date back to 1889 when there were two married men for every bachelor seeking treatment. The ratio was changed all through prohibition, which ended in most of the country in 1934. Then however, it began to jump, and today the ratio is six to one.

The compiler of records refuses to state that the story they tell shows that wives are getting harder to sand without the mellowing influence of booze. On the contrary, conditions are believed due to the increase in hospitality which comes when a man sets up a home for himself.

Figures show that the heaviest drinking is done by men in their early thirties.

4-H LIVESTOCK SHOW WILL LEAD PARADE AT FAIR

Finest of Beef, Dairy Calves to Enter For Ribbons at Festival

The biggest attraction among the exhibits at the annual Cherokee county Fair this year will be livestock especially baby beef and dairy cattle to be shown by 4-H club boys.

The 4-H club boys will be allowed to compete for ribbons both with their calves and in the judging contests, results of which will determine entries in the state fair at Raleigh this year.

County agents A. Q. Ketter and D. C. Snodgrass have been working with the boys in the county who will have fattened 15 Aberdeen Angus calves for entry in the baby beef class.

Several of the calves have made exceptional progress, while the entire bunch will probably be the best ever displayed here. Among them will be a red Angus, a rare thing in this type of beef cattle, which will be entered by Charles Hughes of Martins Creek.

Last year 10 calves were exhibited by 4-H boys and provided a real show for the crowds who gathered for the judging. Competition will be much stiffer this year as some of the finest calves in the state will be entered, all from this county.

A judging team will also be formed from the competition at the county fair, and will compete in the contests at Raleigh. All the 4-H boys will be allowed to enter here and the team will be selected from the winners.

The dairy cattle exhibits by the 4-H clubsters have always been exceptionally good at the local fair and growing in popularity yearly. This

Homeless Wanderer, Jailed In Murphy, Glad To Be Locked Up, So He Can Eat

"I'd rather be in jail than out, because now I know, at least, that I won't starve."

This was the statement of a young man known around Andrews as "Johnnie Martin", but whose real name is Cedric M. Lauks, and whose home is in Kokomo, Ind. He was arrested by State Highway Patrolman Smith early Wednesday morning charged with driving while drunk and with being without a driver's license. Conflicting stories he told have caused his trial to be postponed while his record is investigated.

Lauks hitch-hiked into Andrews about a month ago, and got a job as dishwasher, bellhop and handy man at a hotel. He says he got a dollar a day in cash if trade was good. When there were no tourists, he said, he got only his room and board.

His real name was learned from a draft registration card found in his room after his arrest. This card showed his home to be in Cleveland, Oklahoma. Lauks first told Smith his home was in Salem, Okla.

According to Smith, Lauks told a friend in Andrews that he was there to "spot" a man who had killed his twin brother. After his arrest Lauks first said he had no twin brother "now". Later he denied having one at all. He admitted having served time in Oklahoma but instead he was not guilty.

"My mother and father are dead, and my wife left me", Lauks told the Scout. "I have a brother who has big filling station in Kokomo, but he put me out. I am alone, and I have tramped all over the country, trying to find a decent job. For months I have had to work for my room and board—and there have been many times that I didn't have even that. I'm glad to be in jail."

"If when I get out of this trouble somebody will give me a chance to work, I'll show that I can be worthwhile. Otherwise, I don't care if they keep me locked up for life."
