On The Home Front

With sugar rationing just around the corner, home front trends indicate more and more regulation of prices by the Office of Price Administration in an effort to keep living costs stable and equitable. It is inevitable that consumer's goods will become increasingly scarce as more and more factories are converted to war production, but the CPA is on guard to see that no profiteering results from the situation.

Acting to see whether prices are remaining in line with values, Paul V. Betters, executive Director of the United States Conference of Mayors, is inquiring of officials of 33 cities as to whether savings in milk delivery services are being passed along to the consumers. This inquiry was undertaken at the request of Donald E. Montgomery, consumer's counsel of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Curtailment in deliveries, Mr. Montgomery pointed out, should enable one milk truck to do the work of two, with a reduction in total truck mileage of perhaps 40 per cent and a similar or, even greater, saving in labor cost.

War Cost Mounts
 Our authorized expenditures for war, plus funds pending before Congress, now total an estimated $145,400,000,000. It's obvious we're getting into our stride, but it's also obvious that we shall need every bit of trained manpower we can get to translate these appropriations into finished weapons. . . . This gives added significance to the announcement by WPB's labor Division that the Army and Navy have approved the hiring of 99 per cent of the aliens who have applied for jobs on secret war production.

Save, Salvage, Substitute
 The nation is scouring its scrap heaps for old metals, rubber and paper and the truth is that we probably shall have barely enough of many essentials—even though we conserve to the utmost. There's a clue to the sort of thrift we must practice in the OPA's advice to auto users to save this year's anti-freeze against next winter's cold. We'd do well to learn to take care of our clothes, too, with new restrictions on civilian use of wool. Also, nylon will be needed largely for military purposes.

 As an instance of how all-out production for war works, consider the fact that by the middle of this year manufacturers of machinery used in the textile industry will be devoting half of their capacity to war work. This means that the only textile mills which will get new machinery will be those engaged in essential war work.

Sugar Sharing Urged
 Canners have been urged by A. E. Bowman, chief of the WPB of the WPB sugar section, not to be accept delivery of their sugar supply more than 45 days before they begin canning their 1942 pack. This arrangement will give the canner ample time, time, he said, to arrange for coming operations.
 "Sugar," he explained, "is needed in certain areas for household consumers and should not be tied up in canners' warehouses or plants.

Already completed cans for non-essential uses—cans to contain shoe polish among them—are being released. But no more thereafter. . . . More important, there'll be cans available for the home canner when the season starts. . . . OPA last week asked manufacturers in the flashlight industry not to raise their prices above the level of February 1, fixed a temporary ceiling over used eggs, froze fertilizer prices. War Production officials discussed with the soap and glycerine industry measures which would save more glycerine for war explosives. . . . The end result of this will probably be lots of soap, but soap less slippery because of a lower glycerine content.

Auto Pools Recommended
 Workers who use private automobiles to get to and from work have been urged by Sidney Hillman, labor director of the WPB, to establish "informal transportation clubs" to prolong the service of their tires.
 "In traveling to and from war plants," said Hillman, "the average automobile in many cases carries only one or two persons when it could be carrying more. If we pool resources now with our neighbors and fellow workers we can make our cars last longer and avoid additional strain on buses and streetcars which are already being taxed to capacity in many war production areas."

Hillman did not limit his appeal to workers in war industries. Instead, he emphasized that such cooperation should become a national practice in civilian industry as well.

Junk Offers Loom
 The Bureau of Industrial Conservation, WPB, has announced that definite offers will be made within 90 days for the purchase of all old cars in automobile graveyards located within reasonable distance of metal consumers. The Bureau, with the aid of the WPA and the Department of Agriculture, is now preparing a "directory" of these graveyards.

CHICKS
 American farmers report an intention to buy 12 per cent more baby chicks this year than in 1941, but may purchase more or less depending on feed and egg prices during the hatching season.

Victory Gardeners Face Danger From "Fifth Columnists"

Victory Gardens are warned by J. O. Rowell, Extension entomologist of State College to beware of "Fifth Columnists." He says insects are ready to sabotage the efforts of North Carolina farmers to produce "vegetables for vitality, vengeance and victory."

A pre-season garden clean-up will help reduce crop damage by insects, the entomologist said. "It is especially important in 1942 due to a possible shortage of some insecticides," Rowell declared.

The State College specialist pointed out that some types of insects live over winter in truck crop residue left on land, in weeds, leaf litter, and under boards and trash piled on the ground; others take refuge in ditches, waste places and in and around storage houses.

"It pays to plow under, feed or destroy the plant residue, and remove litter and trash from garden sites as soon after harvest as possible," Rowell advised. "But there still may be time to reduce insect populations by plowing as soon as soil conditions permit. Land not subject to erosion may be plowed before winter weather is over to expose insects and insect eggs to freezing, and to bury alive those hibernating in weeds and plant residue."

Continuing, Rowell said, "Garden sanitation is always a good practice, but it is more important than ever this year because of the increased need for vegetable crops as 'Victory Food.' The home gardener also needs to see that spraying and dusting equipment is in good shape. Preparedness is vital to the war effort. Armies of insects can do as much damage to gardens as hordes of bombing planes can do to our cities and industrial plants."

Soldier's Plea Brings Avalanche of Letters From Beautiful Girls

Pvt. rank Rewis, of South Carolina's 118th Infantry Regiment is convinced that "it pays to advertise" after being deluged with letters recently while he was a patient at the Fort Jackson, S. C. Hospital.

"Down in the dumps" not only because of his illness but also because his friends on the outside neglected to write to him, Frank wrote to a "Lonely Hearts Club." Within a few days, letters and photographs of beautiful girls from all parts of the country began to pour in.

Frank's fan mail reached such proportions that he was forced to press two of his fellow-patients into service as "secretaries" and spend a sizeable part of his 30 bucks a month Army pay for stamps and envelopes.

SCRAP
 Dealers last year supplied a record quantity of 25,000,000 gross tons of scrap—as much as the combined purchased and home scrap used in the first world War.
