America Needs Better Homes

Our president a few nights ago spoke to the world over many hook-ups. Perhaps a billion people heard him. He drew a very dark but correct picture of the World War as we see it from a human stand point, but not one time did he ask God's directing hand in this most destructive war that history records. You will remember that Washington at Valley Forge was found many times on his knees; and Wilson, likewise in War No. 1; also Abraham Lincoln, in our own Civil War; and they soon won triumphantly. But mind you don't put too much blame on our leaders: "When my people which are called by my name" will meet on a common level, clean their own house, turn over the tables, kick out the money changers and those that sell doves for a profit, the Lord's house at that time had gotten in a very bad fix. And is there not a striking similarity between his house and our own Christian nation full of churches, schools and tabernacles, part of them teaching things that ought not to be taught?

Remember in the long ago, God told Joshua to fight a great battle and use nothing but rams horns, and on the seventh day the walls of Jerico fell. Remember Stalingrad, perhaps the greatest battle in all history, has been raging for forty-three days today and has not fallen yet. You will note, these two opposing powers burned their Bibles and tire down their churches years ago. You can't do business with Hitler. Neither can you ignore the Triune God and get by, as it seems they are trying to do.

As our homes go, so goes our nation. How long will our boys have to fall in battle before the church bells will ring at high noon as a danger signal, and the watchman on the tower calls out that the enemy cometh. Then we cry out "what ought I to do", "Here am I, send me". If that is done it will close all drink stands of all kinds, dance halls and houses of pleasure. All these will have to go out as our Lord cleaned his house. And then, talk about your Revival Meetings, they would start before you commenced. The poor old preacher would not have to preach a week to the Christians, then a week to the Sinners, take up a collection and dismiss till next year.

we kept faith with the South!

Southerners are in the middle of the fight on all the fronts of the world. Wherever our Armed forces go into action, our boys are hanging up records that make us all mighty proud of them.

And here at home too, Southern men and women are carrying on with the same kind of courage and stamina — in defense work, in the shipyards . . . and in building morale.

We in the Atlantic Company, brewers of Good Old Atlantic Ale and Beer, are proud to be numbered among those Southern institutions who are fighting the production problems created by war conditions 24 hours a day.

Faced with shortages of metal for bottle caps, restrictions on deliveries to conserve vital rubber and gasoline, shortage of man power because so many of our men have enlisted in the Army, Navy and Marines, we at the same time must produce more because many of our former competitors have abandoned this market and are now devoting all their efforts to serving their own home communities—and we must fill in the gap.

In pledging ourselves to make every effort humanly possible to insure our customers and trade against any avoidable shortage of Good Old Atlantic Ale and Beer, we are, in our own way, simply doing our bit in the country's war effort, for we recognize that in the strain and tension of the wartime job, there is a real and vital need for the healthy relaxation which comes at the end of the day from a refreshing glass of cold Ale or Beer.
