

Control Diseases In Home Gardens

The use of disease resistant varieties of vegetables, seed treatment, and garden sanitation are three practical methods of controlling diseases in the home garden, say Howard R. Garriss, Extension plant pathologist, and D. E. Ellis, assistant plant pathologist of the Experiment Station, both at State College.

In treating small quantities of seed, they recommend that a corner of the packet be torn off and a "pinch" of dust be added to the seed, shaking them so as to give a thin coating of dust. Care should be exercised in handling the materials because some of them are poisonous.

The chief materials recommended for the simple dust treatments are Arasan, Cuprocid, Semesan, Sperson, and zinc oxide. Growers should write the Agricultural Editor, State College, Raleigh, for a free copy of Extension Circular No. 272 which contains a vegetable seed treatment chart.

Do not set weak plants or those that show any signs of disease as a warning from the pathologists. They also suggest a rotation of the garden site, if possible, as a means of reducing the chances of getting diseases that may live over in the soil or come from old, diseased plants.

They also warn against the use of contaminated manures, fertilizers, or plants from infested seed beds or fields.

"By following certain simple and inexpensive practices, as outlined in Circular No. 272, a large percentage of the trouble and losses from vegetable diseases may be reduced," the pathologists say.

Vegetable Seed Prices

OPA's regulation controlling the prices of vegetable seeds was amended today to bring under control certain seeds previously exempt, to free state certified varieties of onion seed and to make other changes, principal among them adjustments of previously announced maximum prices.

The dry commercial field bean seeds previously exempt from price control were brought under because they have a direct relationship with key varieties of green bean seeds covered by the regulation. These include the following classes of dry, commercial field bean seeds: pea, medium white, great northern, small white, pink, pinto, cranberry, light red kidney dark red kidney, western red kidney, cow peas.

All state certified varieties of onion seed were exempted from price control on the recommendation and the Bureau of Plant Industry, State certified onion seed has been in production only four years and is a small part of the nation's seed production.

Ceiling Prices On Certain Items Made Effective

The Wholesaler who sells eggs is required to show on his invoices the price, grade and size and the container in which the eggs were sold. Every Tuesday the retailer must determine his ceiling prices for the ensuing week by multiplying his "net cost" by the markup allowed for his group. He must write his "net cost" on his invoices or on a slip of paper attached to the invoice.

Amendment 18 to MPR-426, establishes maximum prices for seven winter vegetables, effective at the wholesaler level on Feb. 15, 1944. This Amendment establishes prices on the following: Carrots, Green peas, spinach, snap beans, egg plants, sweet pepper, and cucumbers.

APPLES—The February wholesale maximum price on fresh apples, as set by MPR-426 (except in secondary marketing areas) is 8 1/4c per lb. for sales to retailers in LeL or LeL quantities.

OPA announced, that manufacturers who are returning to production of previously marketed steel springs-filled upholstered furniture items sold during March, 1942 or thereafter must not sell above ceilings formerly established for these particular items.

ONIONS—The Wholesale price on dry Onions advanced 15c per 50 lb. bag on February 1, 1944, which means a slight advance in the retail price.

Teach me to wait...
O patient stars!

ARE you lonely tonight? ... Can you drive out of your heart the agony of waiting for him to return?
Then stop a moment and think of the lonelier ones ... the prisoners of war ... condemned to wait it out in some alien land ... condemned to live on alien bread ... alone tonight under the stars ... alone and forgotten?
No ... not while the Red Cross—your Red Cross—has the power to help.
For the Red Cross will, to the utmost of its power, get your letters in to them and will pass their letters back to you.
And every week, through the barbed wire, straight from your generous heart, if it is humanly possible, the Red Cross will send eleven pounds of the sort of food you'd give to your boy if you still had him safe at home ... meat, cheese, sugar, prunes, chocolate bars. And real American cigarettes and tobacco!

Yes, the Red Cross is on the job for our prisoners carrying comforts, packages and hope. And, Mother and Dad, you are the Red Cross—the Red Cross is you.
You have given your sons.

You have done the extra work ... donated your blood and bought your bonds. But here is one extra gift you will gladly make. This is one time when you will dig deeper than ever before ... dig deeper and be proud.
For giving to the Red Cross has always been a great proud habit of thirty million American families ... proud that they could give ... proud of Red Cross that made the giving worthwhile.
Now the need is greater than ever. Now it is your own sons the Red Cross serves ...
Give ... and give freely. Know that wherever he may be ... in camp, abroad or under the patient stars ...

The RED CROSS is at his side and the Red Cross is YOU!
