MEDITATION

"Paradoxical thought it be, only that man is at rest who attains it through conflict. This peace, born of conflict, is not like the deadly hush preceding the tempest, but the serene and pure-voiced quiet that follows it. It is not generally the prosperous one, who has never sorrowed, who is strong and at rest. His quality has never been tried, and he knows not how he can stand even a gentle shock. He is not the safest sailor who never saw a tempest; he will do for fair-weather service, but when the storm is rising, place at the important post the man who has fought out a gale, who has tested the ship, who knows her hull sound, her rigging strong, and her anchor-holds able to grasp and hold by the ribs of the world.

"When first affliction comes upon us, how everything gives way! Our clinging, tenderly hopes are snapped, and our heart lies prostrate like a vine that the storm has torn from its trellis; but when the first shock is past, and we are able to look up, and say, 'It is the Lord,' faith lifts the shattered hopes once more, and binds them fast to the feet of God. Thus the end of confidence, safety, and peace."

Condition Of Town Published

Murphy city fathers this week are publishing to the citizens of Murphy a summary of the condition of the town government at the close of the past fiscal year, June 30. The figures are taken from the audit of a certified public accountant.

The mayor and councilmen are publishing the findings of the auditor in order that people may be informed about their town and the operations of its various branches. Every interested citizen should read the report.

Men in public offices, and particularly those whose duty it is to administer the affairs of taxpayers, receiving and spending taxes and other public funds have a special obligation and responsibility to those whom they serve. The Murphy town officials are commended for their practice of publishing for all to read the condition of the governmental department they serve.

"Your son, Clyde, of whose death the War Department has undoubtedly notified you, was an outstanding Squad Leader in my company and his loss was keenly felt here by we who knew. He was at all times an excellent soldier and very considerate of his men and when he died he was leading his men into a dangerous area that had to be taken and was taken by his squad.

The example of courage Clyde set for us will be long remembered, and we who also feel his loss and extend to you our deepest sympathy."

What's the Rush?

IT'S THE TELEPHONE RUSH. Every night thousands of service men and women dash to the nearest telephones to talk with families and friends at home. Most of the Long Distance calls from camps and naval stations are crowded into a few short hours.

Many circuits are likely to be crowded at that time and it helps a lot when you keep the lines clear from 7 to 10 for service men and women.
