Necessities For All Farm Families

By RUTH CURDENT
N. C. State College

Every farm family needs to have: Hospitalization insurance. Good reading material for the entire family. Electricity, running water, and a telephone if at all possible. A washing machine, substantial clothes line, and good laundry equipment. Comfortable chairs and beds for all members of the family. Tables and reading lamps. Convenient kitchen arrangements for more efficient work. Adequate storage space for clothes and bedding. Patience and cooperative spirit among family members.

By all means use a water softener on wash day if the water is hard. The success or failure of laundering is largely governed by the quality of the water used.

What effect has water hardness on clothes? Wash-day grayness may result. More soap is required. Soften hard water before soap is added, thereby preventing the formation of lime soap curds, which are insoluble.

How may water be softened? There are many good, inexpensive packaged water softening compounds on the market. Two types are generally available—those that cause cloudiness and precipitate in the water and those that leave the water clear. Non-precipitating softeners will give the best washing results.

If you will use the right amount of soap — measuring and not just dumping — it will save soap and will make rinsing easier for you. Experience will help you to determine the amount that suits your need.

Long Distance Lines Are Busier Than Ever

More people are making more long distance telephone calls than ever and you may experience delays on some of your calls.

We are doing everything possible to expand facilities. This year thousands of miles of new long distance circuits are being added—additional long distance switchboards are being installed in many places and hundreds of young women are being employed and trained as operators to help meet the increasing demand for more long distance service.

It's a big job and will take time. Until the job is done we will continue to need your help when circuits are over-loaded by using the service only for necessary calls. Your continued cooperation is appreciated.
