Friends Service Committee Works At Brasstown

During July and August this year for a second time a group of college students under the direction of the American Friends Service Committee attended a work camp at Brasstown. The camp was one of those set up each summer by the American Friends Service Committee, an organization of the Society of Friends, the church group more commonly known as the Quakers. The purpose of these work camps is service to the communities in which they are placed. To the camps go college boys and girls of all nationalities and religious beliefs — anyone who is interested in giving his summer vacation to help the people of some community. The campers pay their own expenses and receive no pay for their labor. However, they consider themselves well repaid because they acquire practical work experience and an increased understanding of the region in which they work. But perhaps rewarding to them is the friendship and understanding of the local people with whom they work.

This year again the work campers lived in Rock House, one of the buildings of the John C. Campbell Folk School. The group was led by Rev. and Mrs. Harry Meserve who brought with them their three small children from Buffalo, N. Y. The workers included Misses Cophine Crozman, Winnie Libbon, Priscilla Robinson, Evelyn Cameron, Barbara Struck, Berenice Braslin, Frances Oppenheim, and Robert Warren, Richard Southworth, Herbert Busse, and Bernardo Picco G. The dietician for the group was Miss Genevieve Dilts. Many church denominations were represented in the camp and one worker came from Mexico City, Mexico. All came from different colleges among which were Princeton, Swarthmore, Holyoke, Smith, Queens, Radcliffe, Penn State and Chicago University.

Together all members of the camp worked on projects which will help the Brasstown community. They cleaned and painted a remodeled part of the Mountain Valley Cooperative Creamery. They helped with threshing and mowing the fields of the Folk School and painted the outside of the Folk School dairy. Their largest single piece of work is a new building at the Folk School. For a long time a blacksmith's shop has been needed to replace the outgrown one which has been serving the community since it was built in 1933. The work campers undertook the building of the new forge about two and a half weeks before the close of the camp and when they left the stone walls were completed and the rafters were in place. Over the front door of the building there is the red and black star which is the symbol of the American Friends Service Committee. The blacksmith's shop, like the woodworking shop built last year, will stand as a symbol of the goodwill and hard work of the work campers who came from all parts of the country to work here because they were interested in this mountain region. In their leisure time the group visited the Smoky mountains, Copperhill, Chatuge and Hiwassee Lakes and the Field of the Woods. They took part in the wood carving classes and the folk games and singing at the Folk School. They attended the Little Brasstown Baptist Church regularly and one Sunday evening gave a religious service at Hayesville.
