the living room slip cover and draperies and the dressing table skirt and stool made by the Bellview home demonstration club women. The woven rug for the bed room was made by Mrs. Carrie Wilson of Valleytown club, and a hand-painted picture by Mrs. Dock Sudderth of the Peachtree club. The kitchen curtains were hand stenciled by Mrs. Ben Warner. Among other exhibits were four hooked rugs made by Miss Mae Sudderth of Marble, which were displayed in the home craft booth, along with other hooked and braided rugs from five counties.

Miss Mary Cornwell, home demenstration agent, took the exhibits to Raleigh and arranged them working many hours on the Lighting exhibit that attracted much attention. Mrs. Harnett Presley of WPTF mentioned Cherokee county exhibits on three of her broadcasts during the fair, including the Lighting exhibit, a quilt sent by Miss Marvie Walker, and 4-H club projects, including a handwoven dress of Mary Estes, and clothing

So far as could be learned, Miss Cornwell was the only person from Cherokee who attended the fair. The following prizes were won n Asheville last week, the board of the State Pepartment of Conservation and Development accepted an 800-acre tract at Hiwassee Dam on lease from Tennessee Valley Authority.

EIGHT PAGES THIS WEEK

While plans for the development of the Cherokee tract remain to be laid, J. Wilbur Bunn, of Raleigh, chairman of the board's parks committee, said that the land would probably be utilized on a lease

The lease, he said, would probably be made at a token figure for three to five years and include an option of renewal up to a total of 19 years. He said there is a possibility that title to the land might ultimately be transferred to the state, but added that he understood the federal government wished to hold title for a number of years.
